MURDER OF SHOUSE LAID TO RUM PLOT

County and Federal Officers Join in Investigation of Torture and Killing of the "Deacon" in Albany

Belief Is General That Men Interested in Illicit Booze Trade Lured Their Victim to Scene of Death

District Attorney Ezra W. Decoto and a number of Eastbay officials and federal officers, interested in the murder of Edwin A. ("Deacon") Shouse, reputed bootleg king and owner of a number of padhouses, whose body, tied with rope and wire, was found in an isolated spot in Albany Saturday night, were in conference late today.

MURDER STYLED MOST BASTARDLY

Police and county officers readily admitted today that the murder is one of the most heinous brought to their attention for some time. They compared it to the Father Heslin case a year ago. Shouse was probably lured away or kidnaped, they said, and taken by force to the lonely spot in Albany where he was brutally killed—very likely for revenge.

LEADERS TO BE CHOSEN FOR INVESTIGATION

It was announced by Decoto that a leader would be chosen at the meeting to handle the investigation, and that all officers would make their reports to him. Decoto declared that he would be unable to take charge of the investigation, in this capacity, if chosen, because of the Andrade case, which is before the grand jury.

WHISKY RUNNERS' REVENGE SUSPECTED

Detectives today were inclined to drop the theory first unearthed that Shouse was the victim of a gang of automobile thieves and that he was killed for vengeance, and advanced instead the theory that he was killed for revenge by a well-organized band of whisky runners.

NORTHCLIFFE, PUBLISHER, DIES

Owner of Powerful Newspapers Succumbs to Toxic Blood Poisoning.

By F. A. WRAY, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Lord Northcliffe, (Alfred Charles William Harmsworth), the greatest publisher of Great Britain has ever produced and one of the most powerful unofficial personages in England, died this morning at 10:12 o'clock at his town residence in Carlton Gardens. He was 57 years old on the day of his death.

The end was peaceful. The widow was at his bedside. The official bulletin did not give the cause of death. It is understood, however, that it was caused by toxic poisoning from a throat ailment. This poison impregnated the blood affecting the vital organs, principally the heart. A previous bulletin had stated that the membranes lining of the cavities of the heart had become inflamed. Lord Northcliffe was unconscious a great deal of the time before his death.

FUNERAL TO BE HELD IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY

The funeral will be held Thursday. Upon the guest of the dean of Westminster, the service will be conducted in Westminster Abbey and will be public. Following news services interment will be in St. Marylebone cemetery.

All the evening newspapers issued extras on Lord Northcliffe's death. A flood of condolence messages are pouring in upon Lady Northcliffe, the widow, from high personages throughout the British Isles.

Lord Northcliffe was taken ill while traveling in Germany early in the summer, writing a series of articles on German industrial conditions for his newspapers. He went to Switzerland the middle of June, but was forced to discontinue all his literary and journalistic labors. A short time later he was removed to his home in London. Although continuously under care of specialists, who labored to save his life, he failed to rally. He grew gradually weaker.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 14 (By International News Service.)—Threats that striking shopmen will no longer recognize rights of state, county or city law enforcement officers to command them are contained in a resolution adopted here today by the executive committee of the striking shopmen.

"We have tried to be peaceful," the resolution states, "and tried to keep down violence, but we no longer can or will attempt to do these things."

Charging that the Santa Fe railroad controls city, state and county officers, the resolution further states that if "any friendly act is committed toward any striking shopman, we will take what action we deem necessary into our own hands."

The department received a copy of the resolution adopted by locals of the Big Four brotherhood at Riverbank, Calif., ordering their men out at 10 p. m. tomorrow on the ground that equipment was unsafe with "strikebreakers with guns and knives" at work.

CLEVELAND, O., August 14. (By the Associated Press.)—W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, today instructed two vice-presidents of his organization to go immediately to the Santa Fe coast lines.

"Instructions were given the vice-presidents," Lee said, "to insist that all laws of the brotherhood regarding cessation of work be complied with."

Lee declined to say anything further regarding the railroad situation.

WASHINGTON, August 14.—(By International News Service.)—District Attorney Burke, at Los Angeles, telegraphed Attorney General Daugherty today that he had not yet been able to determine whether there had been conspiracy on the part of the train crews in leaving their trains stalled along the Santa Fe right-of-way.

Trains are running now and conditions are comparatively quiet, Burke advised.

By CHARLES R. LYON, (United Press Staff Correspondent) CHICAGO, August 14.—Walkout of the "big four" brotherhoods at Needles, Cal., and other points on the Santa Fe railroad was branded as a deliberate conspiracy by Vice-President A. G. Wells of the Santa Fe today.

"The action of the trainmen was inhuman, and a violation of their solemn agreement with the railroad," Wells declared.

Wells stated that the scores of men, women and children marooned at the desert division point were started toward Los Angeles yesterday on a train manned by railroad officials.

That Attorney General Daugherty has started an investigation to determine if the action of the train men was a conspiracy, I desire the public to know it was nothing else," Wells declared in a statement.

"More than that, it was inhuman to abandon people, especially aged or infirm, and women and children in desert places with the mercury 120 in the shade."

United States Marshals Aiding to Keep Peace in Turbulent Zone Along L. A. Line of Union Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO, August 14.—An injunction temporarily restraining members of the shopmen's unions and other individuals from interfering with the operation of its trains was obtained today by the Western Pacific railroad. Judge Frank Radkin signed the temporary injunction, the case having been transferred from Sacramento. Senator J. M. Inman represented the defendant.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 14.—The superintendent of state police at Carson received orders today to send a detachment of state police to Las Vegas at once, where Governor Boyle is now. The state police are to leave at once by motor truck. The superintendent's information is that there was nearly a riot at Las Vegas last night.

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Aug. 14.—Seventeen striking trainmen of the Union Pacific railroad were arrested here early today by officers of the Nevada state police.

Both United States marshals and state police forces were with Governor Boyle when the seventeen, they say, were found picketing outside of the Union Pacific stockade, where more than 100 men, women and children are imprisoned.

State's Police Inspector Dan Renner arrested two pickets and took two revolvers from them. One of these he turned over to Governor Boyle. A few yards from the scene of the first arrests, S. M. Madrat, according to the officers, jumped from behind a bush and aimed a revolver at the governor. The latter whipped out the weapon he had just received and brought it down on Madrat, who dropped his revolver and threw up his hands at Boyle's command.

Madrat and fourteen more were then placed under arrest. All were placed under guard, but no formal charges had been lodged against them at this time.

Inspector Rinear said a flying squadron of twenty-five state police was en route here from Carson City to aid in handling the situation.

Walkout of 600 More Men At Roseville Yards of S. P. Intensifies Situation At Vital Freight Icing-Plant

Ruin Menaces Growers As Shipping of Crops Is Further Restricted By Tie-ups On Overland Roads

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Carrying fully armed guards to protect mail and passengers, Santa Fe train No. 4, the California Limited for Chicago, left Los Angeles early this afternoon. Company officials declared the train will be operated through to its destination.

James F. Duffy, general passenger agent, said the Santa Fe expected the Limited to get through to Chicago without trouble, as the equipment was in perfect condition. All trains that were abandoned on the Santa Fe system west of Albuquerque are moving today, he said. Four trains are stalled in Albuquerque. The train sent out today was despatched without any agreement with the striking trainmen.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Fresh violence and a relaxing of the embargo on perishables, including fruit, through the Ogden gateway east of the Southern Pacific railroad as a result of a new walkout at Roseville, Calif., featured the railroad strike situation on the Pacific coast today.

At Roseville, where approximately 600 men walked out, including members of the "Big Four" brotherhoods, five bombs were thrown at the height of the excitement, according to word reaching the offices of the Southern Pacific here. They exploded in the yards of the railroad, but did no material damage, according to reports received here.

Two arrests were made at Roseville, according to reports at the office of United States Marshal Malvey.

The walkout at Roseville, important icing station, which has been one of the two storm centers of the shopmen's strike in California, resulted not only in an embargo eastward to Ogden, but caused an embargo to be placed on shipments to Portland as the northern line also passes through this point.

The Southern Pacific claimed the tieup at Roseville was due to the walkout of six switching crews of five men each and that other employees were willing to work, but the junction was tied up because of the cessation of work by the key men.

The strikers ascribed their action to the condition of rolling stock and to the alleged promiscuous shooting of armed guards. Two Southern Pacific passenger trains were reported held up at Sacramento by the new walkout. Officials believed passenger traffic could be kept moving despite the Roseville situation.

FRUIT GROWERS' SITUATION DARK

Inasmuch as the Ogden route now embargoed handles in the neighborhood of 75 per cent of the fruit shipments to California growers, whose $50,000,000 crop is just now ripening, faced a dark situation today.

Their only hope as in prompt action which was expected to start in Los Angeles where Assistant United States District Attorney Burke has started a probe to determine whether a conspiracy exists to tie up the transcontinental arteries.

H. A. Jones, president of the Southern Pacific system shop employees in San Francisco, yesterday wired Washington, in behalf of 40,000 strikers, that the men are ready to submit the wage question to the labor board, but that they demand that their seniority rights remain unimpaired, and that they will not return to work unless this is agreed to. Jones has made an inspection trip of the situation as far as Ogden. He announced that the strike was stronger than ever, and that the number of men on picket duty exceeds any number previously employed.

Southern Pacific eastbound trains numbers 6 and 20, which were stalled in Sacramento last night, left today for the east, after engine crews had been obtained to take the places of men, members of

RUIN LOOMS FOR FRUIT MEN AS STRIKE SPREADS

Southern Growers Plan to Use Motor Trucks in Effort to Save Crops.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14.—Fruit men of northern California face what practically amounts to ruin as a result of the walkout of the Southern Pacific Big Four at Roseville and at other points along both the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe. The California Fruit Distributors, declared last night, following information that the men were out.

There are between 1500 and 2000 carloads of fruit between Roseville and Omaha en route to eastern markets. Sixty while the strike is in progress, the yards at Roseville showed 180 loads in the yards on Saturday.

MAY USE TRUCKS TO SAVE FRUIT.

FRESNO, Aug. 14.—Confidence that the perishable fruit crop of the valley can be saved in part by a mobilization of the motor trucks is being expressed by the California Motor Transportation Company, which returned to Fresno Saturday night after making a survey of motor truck facilities in the state. Shippers estimated that a complete rail tie-up would cause a loss to the valley of $10,000,000.

"We can contribute enough motor trucks in the valley to move the entire crop," Mott declared. "A large part of the crop could be consumed in California. From Fresno we could take fruit to the coast in a few hours, from where boats could be used to other destinations, including New York."

"The California Motor Transportation Company does not own or operate trucks, but is an association of truck companies. It is not a competitor of the railroads. Since the fruit crop has been imperiled, we have been impelled by shippers to make a survey and find out what we can do if the rail tie-up develops. We find that we can replace the railroads in the state in case of emergency."

HIGHWAYS HELP PLAN.

"We are fortunate in California in having the best highways in the country. Motor trucks can step into the breach and save the fruit growers millions of dollars. Motor trucks are doing valiant service in the east, they are already doing great service in California, but by a mobilization of the state truck resources in menaced districts, we believe we can save the situation."

Fruit men declared yesterday they were unable to accurately estimate the amount of damage done to the country by the strike. They would reach a million dollars a day, others placing the figure higher. One fruit shipper estimated that it is half a million dollars a day.

Several fruit packing houses of the country have ceased operations, it is announced, because of the embargo placed on green fruit shipments by the Santa Fe and the threatened embargo on the Southern Pacific.

It was stated because of the closing of these packing houses and the embargo, "incalculable damage" will result.

Both Sides Tell Status In Spurning Peace Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Following announcement of the rejection of President Harding's plan for arbitration of the seniority issue, leaders of both sides issued statements defining their status in the strike controversy. The statement for the managers was issued by Thomas De Witt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, who intimated also that following the failure of this, the third attempt at an adjustment, there will be no more conferences with the government.

The statement for the unions was issued by L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railroad Conductors, who announced that a formal and more definite statement would be made Tuesday after Congress convenes. The statements, leading with that of the managers, follow:

At the meeting of the railways in New York on Friday, August 11, 1922, they with practical unanimity responded favorably to the President's call that the seniority question be left to the United States Railroad Labor Board.

Approximately three-quarters of the mileage responded favorably to his call that all striking shopmen be re-employed, and the balance that all such strikers be re-employed as far as practicable. The resolutions acted on by the meeting have been submitted to the President.

RESOLUTIONS OUTLINED.

The following resolutions were adopted by roads having a mileage of 15,824 miles:

"The telegram of the President, dated August 7, 1922, having been considered, and in response to his call to the carriers and the striking workmen, the following resolutions were adopted:

"We, the carriers, in response to the President's call, agree to return to work and to the carriers to assign them to work, leaving the disputed question of seniority to the labor board under the provisions of the transportation act of August 7, 1922, but recognizing that the proposal of the President invokes the jurisdiction of the labor board under the transportation act to pass upon the relative seniority of those loyal employees who have remained at work and those new employees who have since accepted service (the rights of both of which classes to seniority we feel bound in justice to defend before the labor board) with the strikers who have re-entered the service under the provisions of the President."

SENIORITY RIGHT.

"Therefore, be it further resolved:

"(A) All former employees who have not been guilty of proven violence against the employees or property of the railroad shall be assigned to their former positions where vacancies exist.

"(B) Where the positions they formerly held have been filled, other employment of the same class will be found for such employees as have committed no acts of violence against the employees or property of the railroad.

"(C) If after these men have been assigned, question of seniority arises with them, they will be referred to the United States Railroad Labor Board for review.

"Further resolved, that the strike is to be called off, with the understanding and agreement by all parties that no intimidation or oppression shall be practiced or permitted against any of the employees who have remained or have returned to service under the provisions of the President."

The following minority report was supported by roads having a mileage of 57,222 miles:

"Resolved, that the chairman be authorized to reply to the President's telegram of August 7, that the railroads represented at this meeting are willing that:

"(A) All former employees who have not been guilty of violence against the employees or property of the railroad shall be assigned to their former positions where vacancies exist.

"(B) If after these men have been assigned, questions of their seniority arise which cannot be settled locally, they shall be referred to the United States Railroad Labor Board for review.

"(C) In agreeing to submit questions of seniority as provided above to the United States Railroad Labor Board for review, it is understood that neither the railroads nor the employees shall be deprived of the right of review by the courts of such decisions if they affect agreements in existence between any railroad and its employees."

STAND OF UNION.

The statement of Sheppard outlining the position of the railroad unions follows:

"We will not issue our formal reply at this time as we do not know where we are. We don't want to make a move that might embarrass either side, and are awaiting developments. We are hopeful of finding some way of helping the situation. We are going to remain here at least until Congress reconvenes on Tuesday, or if the President wants to see us we can respond to his call, as soon as we can make a statement which will not be embarrassing to anybody we will make one."

A great deal has been said about the question of seniority. This point has been overlooked. It is only one of several fundamentals which are applicable to the men who have left the railroad and returned to service. The real issue is the status of those who remain on

BOMBS INJURE TWENTY WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Autoists Sought on Suspicion of Dynamiting Train in New Jersey.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Twenty women and children are in hospitals today, victims of bombers, who hurled three charges of dynamite against a crowded excursion train on the West Shore railroad at Little Ferry, N. J.

State police and railroad detectives are looking for two men in an automobile observed near the scene of the bombing a short time before the attack took place.

According to reports of persons, five or six, officials of the road reported.

The train, filled with passengers returning home after the week-end holidays, was on its way across the bridge when the entire train was shaken by three explosions. The passengers were thrown into a panic as they were showered by flying glass.

The ambulance and police reserves were rushed to the scene from here.

The police learned that shortly before the Westhaver local was due at Cranston an automobile, said to have carried three men, was seen standing by the side of the railroad right-of-way.

A wrecking crew went to the scene to help the damaged train. The Westhaver local was seriously injured were given first aid. The West Shore is a subsidiary of the New York Central railroad.

RAILROAD BRIDGE IS DYNAMITED.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 14.—The St. Louis & San Francisco railroad bridge across the Sac river, near Ash Grove, Mo., north-west of here, was dynamited last night.

The bridge is 400 feet long. United States deputy marshals from here have gone to the scene.

The bridge, which is on the main line between Springfield and Kansas City, was wrecked.

A big group of about 100 workers on the bridge, who were on the bridge on the structure, one of the biggest in this section. A wrecking crew also is en route to the scene from Fort Scott, Kan.

15 LOCOMOTIVES, SHOPS
BURN IN MAINE.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 14.—Fifteen locomotives of the Maine Central Railroad and shops of the Portland Terminal Company and a roundhouse were destroyed in a fire here yesterday.

The damage is estimated at $1,000,000. The police are investigating the cause of the fire. Just before the fire was discovered by deputy sheriffs on guard two explosions were heard.

The fire was caused by the explosion of a dynamite bomb.

Sheriff King Graham started an investigation immediately and placed a number of additional men on duty in the railroad yards. He said his deputies could not determine the cause of the explosion and he believed the fire was incendiary.

Brotherhoods Hold
Control of Strike

WASHINGTON, August 14.—(By the Associated Press).—Chief interest in possibilities of a settlement of the rapidly spreading rail strike centered today in a meeting of union leaders here, but little hope was entertained anywhere that any action of the meeting might result in a general relief of the present demoralized situation in the field of transportation.

Rail chiefs were on their way home, following the announcement of their answer to President Harding's peace offer, and so far as they or the government were concerned, no further mediator step was in immediate prospect.

In many quarters it was believed the real key to the situation was held by the four railway brotherhoods, and that the attitude of their officials and the extent of their support would determine in a large measure the action of the striking crafts.

REPLY POSTPONED.

Though it had been said the striking unions had refused to make a statement rejecting the President's proposal, that statement had been withheld from publication up to the time the conference of the union leaders assembled this morning was taken as an indication there still was a possibility they might reconsider.

There also was seen a possibility that no decision would be forthcoming for a day or so, and in this connection some significance attached to the statement of L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railroad Conductors last night that the four brotherhood chairmen would continue to act as a committee of mediation "until Congress gets here and safe harbor is provided."

Fruit Growers Face Dark
Situation; Bombs Hurled
At Roseville.

"Big Four" brotherhood locals at Roseville, who left their posts it was announced by General Manager Dyer of the Southern Pacific coast lines.

Westbound Southern Pacific trains numbers 1, 19, and 21 which were due here early this morning through the Ogden gateway, were expected here about noon, it also was stated.

It was announced that passenger tickets were being sold to all destinations, and that the only emigration was on fruit and other perishables and livestock.

All other freight, it was stated, was being accepted "subject to delay."

The Santa Fe system virtually was paralyzed by a lockout of its employees at Niles, Cal., Spigman, Ash Fork, Williams and Winslow, Arizona, and there was one in progress at Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The Union Pacific's line from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles was blocked solidly by refusal of brotherhood men at several points, chiefly Las Vegas, Nev., to move trains.

This road planned to detour two of its trains over Southern Pacific trackage, but what effect the strike at Roseville would have on this had not been made clear early today.

WESTERN PACIFIC
COMPLETELY TIED UP.

The Western Pacific, operating between San Francisco and Salt Lake City was blocked completely by walkouts at Oroville, Oakland and Stockton, Cal., and announced that traffic was "suspended indefinitely."

Only one train was held up on this line. It was at Stockton, and all but a few of those aboard had proceeded to their destinations by other means or returned to San Francisco. There were no trains held at isolated points on the Southern Pacific or Union Pacific early today, but on the Santa Fe 19 west-bound ones were marooned and one was feeling its way eastward from Needles, where it had been held three days, with officials doubtful as to how far it would get.

Approximately 1700 passengers were aboard these trains, six of which were at Albuquerque and the others at Selkman, Williams and Ash Fork.

A telegram from President Harding to Governor Campbell of Arizona offering aid for those aboard these trains, remained unanswered because the governor was traveling and had not received it. The passengers marooned at Albuquerque telegraphed President Harding urging that he take command of the situation.

SANTA FE TO TRY TO MOVE TRAINS.

The Santa Fe planned to try to move two trains west from Selkman today.

At Los Angeles, preliminary steps were taken yesterday to make an investigation into the origins of the walkouts on the Santa Fe to determine whether they were the result of a conspiracy. Attorney General Daugherty, in ordering the inquiry, instructed that evidence discovered be taken before a grand jury, if sufficient to warrant that step, and the Los Angeles officials in charge of the investigation declared the "public peace" shall be protected at all costs.

Governor Boyle, of Nevada, was at Las Vegas today inquiring, it was said, into apparent discrepancies between statements made to him by railroad officials and by the civil officers at that place regarding the situation. About 150 guards and railroad employees virtually were prisoners at Las Vegas, the men on strike refusing to allow food to be taken to the enclosure where they were quartered.

Bomb Is Found in San Jose Rail Yard

SAN JOSE, Aug. 14.—The reported finding of a bomb in the local Southern Pacific freight yards early yesterday was being investigated here today by San Jose police.

M. Vaughter, private detective of this city, reported the find. He displayed the "bomb," which had the appearance of an army hand grenade. Vaughter declared that while walking near Oxnard street early yesterday morning on private business, he espied a man acting suspiciously near a strike fence around the local roundhouse.

Vaughter watched the man unfold a newspaper and take from it a bomb-like instrument. The man saw him and fled. Vaughter went to the scene and picked up the bomb, which he turned over to the authorities.

Brotherhood Leaders
Seek to End Strike

PUEBLO, Colo., Aug. 14.—Brotherhood leaders and officials of the Missouri Pacific railroad here were to hold a conference today in an effort to end the walkout of firemen on that road between Pueblo and Horace, Kan.

Twenty-five men refused to take their runs because of alleged defective equipment. As a result two passenger trains have been annulled.

Efforts to reach a settlement last night failed.

Thrills, Suffering Told By Marooned Passengers

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14 (By International News Service).—Some thrilling stories of adventure, each rivaling all the others in interest, were being told today by the 125 men and women tourists following their arrival here after being marooned three days and nights on the sweltering desert at Needles, when the Santa Fe train on which they were passengers was halted because of the railroad tie-up.

The passengers, many of them women with little babies, aged grandmothers and feeble children, presented a pitiful sight when they stepped off the train here and into the arms of waiting relatives and friends, and told their tales of experiences in the desert of heat when the thermometer hovered around 120 degrees.

ARRIVES ON STRETCHER.

With but one exception the passengers joked and laughed about their experience. The exception was J. M. Morris, of Los Angeles, who arrived here on a stretcher after having collapsed twice from the heat and delayed the train at Barstow on hour and a half while a physician gave him first-aid treatment. At San Bernardino a trained nurse was secured and his arrival in Los Angeles under the care of the nurse and a doctor.

The story of how the engineer and his wife opened their hearts and home to Mr. and Mrs. William Hebrer of Denver, for their two-year-old son Robert and secured food for him, was related by Mrs. Hebrer.

The life of little Jane Dums, one-year-old daughter of Mrs. Susan Dums, who went into convulsions from the heat, was saved only by the untiring efforts of her mother and the good women of Needles, according to the mother. Bitter condemnation of the situation was expressed by S. W. Porter, San Francisco attorney, who was on the train stalled at Ashfork, Ariz. He said a committee consisting of N. A. McDonald, Kansas City business man; G. B. Foster of Omaha, and Ralph Newton, San Francisco, appealed to men men to move the train just thirty-five miles to a watering station but they refused.

AGED WOMAN PRAISES LINE.

Despite her 73 years, Mrs. E. T. Bissell of Topeka, Kan., on her tenth journey west, spoke kind words for the Santa Fe, saying all possible was done for the passengers.

TOOK LEADING PART TO AID PASSENGERS.

BERNDET, August 14.—How Roy Smith, prominent Elk and San Francisco knitting manufacturer, took the initiative in an appeal for aid for women and children marooned on the hot Arizona deserts after trainmen had walked out suddenly in strike, was related by friends in this city today.

After a little effort to get the striking Southern Pacific trains to move passenger trains without prejudice in their cause, Smith wired to influential friends here, seeking their assistance.

In his telegram Smith said that many women and children were overcome by the heat and that the interiors of the cars were like incinerators.

Charging desertion,azel Ruth Kruckeberg today was granted a divorce from Edward W. Kruckeberg, salesman and actor, by Judge T. W. Harris, who accepted a property settlement signed by both parties.

The wife was given custody of two minor children.

Licenses of Two
Milkmen Revoked

Continuing the drive to keep up the city's milk standard, Dr. C. C. Wing, head of the milk inspection bureau, today revoked the licenses of two out-of-town milk shippers. They will not be permitted to ship milk into the city until such a time as they can give satisfactory proof that their product is up to standard. The licenses revoked were those of:

Mours & Rose, milk producers of Walnut Creek, too high in bacteria and adulterated with water.

Jose Cordova of Tracy, milk adulterated with water.

Dr. Wing has established milk inspection stations on the main highways into the city.

SHOUSE MURDER IS LAID TO WIDE COAST RUM PLOT

County and Federal Officers
Unite to Investigate
"Deacon's" Death.

Officers recall the presence of Shouse at that time, and are certain that he was the victim of the vengefulness of his thwarted rivals in the illicit sale of liquor.

Shouse had put in three third-party claims on the automobiles used by the bootleggers arrested at the time, according to Rutter, laying claim in this way to three automobiles on the contention that they were used without his knowledge or consent. Rutter also said that his office had a considerable record of Shouse's bootlegging activities.

Information that for several weeks there had been discreet inquiries by certain persons as to the whereabouts of Shouse, and that these inquiries sought to determine the location of the Oakland man, was gained by the investigators today.

VICTIM TORTURED
BY MURDERERS.

A careful examination of Shouse's body after it was found Saturday night at the foot of Madison street, in Albany, in a spot in a clump of willow trees which was strewn with empty tin cans and bits of rubbish, showed that the man was put to torture before he was killed. This manner in which death was dealt out to Shouse indicated a vengeance motive. The condition of the body showed that Shouse had been tortured, before being bound and strangled and finally being dealt with a heavy instrument.

The face was battered in beyond recognition and the skull caved in from terrific blows upon the head. The body was found by Harry Ashbridge, a boy living at 534 Stanley street, Albany, as he was looking for his goat.

The car which Shouse had been driving, was found by the Berkeley police where it had been abandoned at Dwight way and Walnut street, Berkeley, Thursday night. Several bullets were found in one of the side pockets and there was blood on one of the seats.

The slain man, known to his associates as the "Deacon," was reported to have owned and controlled several roadhouses in Contra Costa and Alameda counties. Some years ago he was an automobile driver, but quit the game.

He had been killed in an accident. His home was in Louisville, Ky., where his parents and his sister resided. He was married in Los Angeles about 10 years ago.

Police said Shouse was a close friend of W. L. Chadbourne, known as the "Parson," now a fugitive from justice on an embezzlement charge in connection with an automobile theft ring.

PLAYER HURLS
BAT AT PITCHER
AND FIGHT IS ON

HANFORD, Cal., August 14.—Shortstop Brown of the local baseball club, yesterday hurled his bat at Pitcher "Boots" Schultz, whom he accused of trying to "beat him" in a game yesterday.

After the two proceeded to get together at fistfights. Other players pulled the combatants apart before serious damage was done. Brown was ordered from the game by Umpire Hayes whose action was highly approved by the local fans.

Jury Disagrees in "Labor War" Murder

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(By International News Service).—The jury in the "labor controversy" trial in the case of Fred ("Frenchy") Mader, Daniel ("Duke") McCarthy and John Miller, after 48 hours deliberation, during which they were unable to come to an agreement, were dismissed by Judge Taylor today.

The disagreement means new trials for all the defendants, who are charged with conspiracy in connection with the murder of Police Lieutenant Terrence Lyons during the Landis wage award war.

COAL STRIKE END SEEN IN PARLEY NEXT WEDNESDAY

Lewis Accepts Plea For Conference With Anthracite Operators.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14. (By International News Service). — The coal strike will be settled by Wednesday and production begun on a large scale, according to confidential advisers reaching government officials today.

"Everything looks favorable for a settlement within the next 48 hours between the operators and miners at the Cleveland conference," said a telegram received today by a cabinet officer.

Booze in Gutter Set Afire by Pavement Heat

CALEXICO, Cal., Aug. 14.—

More than 100 gallons of confiscated liquor, poured into the streets by customs officers here yesterday, caught fire from the extreme heat of the pavement.

Chief Brown of the U. S. custom service here, said U. S. Marshal George Cooley of San Diego, officiated over the "plum pudding gutter."

Most of the liquor was in large tanks and some of it had spoiled from standing in the copper containers.

The first few gallons poured caught fire and another tank exploded as flames flashed across the flowed liquor to it. The thermometer at the time was registering 120 in the shade.

fields brightened today as the miner - operator wage conference met to iron out differences on the one point holding up an immediate agreement.

That point is the issue of strike prevention measures.

The operators desire to include distinct clauses in the proposed agreement here providing that wage parleys start some time in advance of the expiration of the old wage agreement next year in order to avoid another strike.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Samuel D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company, and spokesman for the anthracite coal operators, announced today that he had notified John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, that the mine owners were willing to resume operations in the hard coal fields at the old wage scale pending the appointment of a commission to investigate the situation. Warriner said he had telegraphed Lewis last night suggesting that a conference of anthracite operators and representatives of the miners be held in this city Wednesday.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 14.—Accepting Warriner's invitation to meet the operators' conference at Philadelphia on Wednesday, Lewis said.

"The broad premise upon which you have based your invitation is commendable and augurs well for the success of the conference."

Man Killed, House Set On Fire, Belief

SANTA ROSA, Aug. 14.—Authorities are investigating the circumstances surrounding the burning to death of George Brunz, 21 'Verano' egg rancher, at his home early today.

James Moore, a neighbor, is being held as a witness to testify at the inquest to be held this afternoon. Moore told officers that while he and his wife were gathering eggs on the Brunz ranch they noticed the house in flames. He said he ran to the house and endeavored to rescue Brunz, but the latter fought him off and refused to be rescued. The house was destroyed and Brunz cremated.

District Attorney Hoyle, on his return from El Verano today, declared his investigation had convinced him that Brunz was murdered and his home burned to conceal the crime. He said developments might be expected in the case which would bring to light foul play following the inquest.

NORTHCLIFFE IS CALLED BY DEATH IN LONDON HOME

Noted Publisher of British Papers Succumbs to Toxic Blood Poisoning.

attacked Lloyd George, demanding his resignation.

The death of England's master journalist brought widespread grief. Although he had more enemies than any other man in England, his foes regretted his death because he fought so well and doggedly. Poor printers who had been benefited from his ideals for the welfare of the working classes mourned him, as well as powerful politicians who had benefited from his support. Mourners and messages of condolence to the Northcliffe home at Carlton Terrace came from all ranks in all classes.

Just before Northcliffe's illness became known, it was learned that his business colleagues in the company publishing the Daily Mail had sued him for libel. Subsequently the suit was withdrawn.

While Lord Northcliffe was under treatment in a Swiss sanatorium, he was in a state of mind that was almost unbearable. One was that his mind had become affected and that he was under restraint. The basic cause of his illness seems to have been toxic poisoning resulting from disease.

Later his condition became serious, and Lord Northcliffe was unconscious some of the time.

CONDUCTING THREE FIGHTS AT END.

Lord Northcliffe went down fighting. He was conducting vigorous fights when he was forced to give up his work. One campaign went by the slogan: "We stand by France"—a favorite headline in his papers. This campaign was aimed against Lloyd George's opposition to the French policy in Germany.

Another Northcliffe slogan was: "Watch Japan." This campaign was due to Lord Northcliffe's belief (after his "world tour") that Japan held ambitions which were dangerous to the rest of the world.

The third campaign was a single handed stand against the powerful Newspaper Proprietors' Association's efforts to reduce printer's wages. Lord Northcliffe stood for an increase in wages instead of a reduction.

Lord Northcliffe's death is bound to have a political effect but its extent depends upon whether the heirs decide to carry on the fight against Premier Lloyd George. It is certain, however, that Lord Northcliffe's death removes Premier Lloyd George's most dangerous enemy. It is presumed that the Northcliffe press will be directed in the future by Lord Rothermere and Hildebrand Harmsworth, two brothers of the late editor.

BRITISH THOUGHT CHANGED BY POLICY.

The death of Lord Northcliffe removes a unique figure in British history. He changed English thought completely and was the greatest single force for progressiveness in England. He was ruthless in breaking down old traditions. He was the first to introduce modern newspaper methods in England—methods that might formerly have been termed "yellow."

One of Northcliffe's last acts was to fight Lloyd George's policy in the Genoa conference—an unheard-of violation of the tradition that the government must be supported in international conferences.

Lord Northcliffe played a powerful role in the world war and it was his papers that first revealed the shortage of heavy ammunition in the British army in France. He was born in Dublin, the son of a lawyer. His first publication was a weekly called "Answers," which consisted mainly of answers to questions, jokes and short "frank" stories. He was created a baronet in 1904, a baron in 1905 and viscount in 1915. In 1917 Northcliffe was chairman of the British war mission in the United States. The following year he was made director of propaganda in enemy countries. He was married in 1888 to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of the late Robert Milnes, but left no children.

Japan Begins Move To Cut Army Force

TOKYO, Aug. 14. (By the Associated Press). — The reduction of the Japanese army in accordance with the reorganization plans proposed by the war office and approved by the cabinet recently was begun today when 4000 artillerymen were disbanded. The retirement of several generals and other officers holding high commissions will be announced shortly, it was learned.

NEW DRESSES FOR ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY

"Molly you little minx! You are a horrid thing not to tell us who your best friends even couldn't tell whether you are in love with Dick or Jack. They both are so devoted and you seem to bestow smiles equally upon both of them."

"That's all right, girls. You see this sparkler? Well, the diamond means that I am engaged all right, but that's the secret. I don't see for the life of me though why you can't guess. Only one of the two is worth considering to my notion."

"Nonsense! That's where love is blind. The two are equally desirable according to me."

"Well, I won't tell, but I am going to have an announcement party soon—a real spiffy announcement party, and you will learn then."

"Oh my, then I'll have to buy a new dress. I decided not to go to another party without a new dress."

Here too, Molly's honor. Molly's engagement by dressmaker for the occasion. Let's go to Cherry's, at 515 13th street, where we can select some lovely dresses and arrange for six months' payment. Molly, shall we buy afternoon or evening dresses for this wonderful party?

Cherry's store for men is at 525 13th street.—Advertisement.

LEVI MAYER, OF NOTE IN LEGAL FIELD, IS DEAD

Millionaire Corporation Attorney Succumbs to Stroke in Chicago Home.

CHICAGO, August 14.—Levi Mayer, millionaire member of the Chicago Bar and one of the most noted corporation lawyers in the country, was found dead today by his valet crouched on his knees at a window of his suite in the Blackstone hotel. The body when found was clad in a dressing gown and slippers. Mayer apparently had been stricken after he had risen from his bed, possibly to seek aid for a sudden illness.

Dr. M. H. Wilkinson, house physician of the Auditorium hotel, the first physician to reach the body, declared death was due to heart failure.

Mayer returned to his suite from a trip to the country yesterday. He appeared the best of health, with the exception of a slight pain in the back of the head, of which he had complained constantly.

Mayer was reputed to be a multimillionaire. He owned the Stratford hotel and was also a heavy stockholder in both the Blackstone and Congress hotels.

Word of the famous lawyer's death was flashed to the office of Coroner Peter M. Hoffman. A coroner's physician immediately was sent to the hotel for an autopsy.

Mayer was born in Richmond, Ga., October 23, 1858. He moved with his parents to this city, where he graduated from high school, later entering Yale as a special student and taking up work in the law department of the university.

Mayer's most famous legal fight of recent years was his attempt to knock out the eighteenth amendment on the ground that it was unconstitutional.

THREE MINUTE TALES

AD SCHUSTER BECKONING BUSHES

"BIG ED" WATERS hunched his trousers by the left belt strap, dragged his hat from his right hand and slouched to the plate.

"Wow, here's Ed," a friendly rooster yelled and a shout of encouragement followed.

The ballplayer eyed the opposing pitcher disdainfully, let the first one go by, then snapped out of his indifferent posture to swing viciously at the second. A roar from the stands echoed the crack of leather on bat, rose mightily and fell, even as the ball had fallen into the hands of the center fielder. Big Ed walked back to the bench.

As the game went on First Baseman Waters sought desperately to whip the old enthusiasm into his play. He felt that he was going through the motions, satisfactorily perhaps, but not brilliantly. It had been a long time since he had come through with a hit in the punch.

Jameson, the substitute, was being used more frequently. In the flat on the North Side Waters found dimper waiting and Little Ed in the high chair crying a joyful welcome. Automatically he went through the order of losing the three-year-old to the ceiling, but his old laugh was missing. After dinner the man who was known to thousands of fans for his stoical indifference in the diamond, put his arm over the shoulder of his wife and led her to the fireplace.

"Well, Hazel," he said, "it's back. We've been there be-bushes for us."

ED'S WIFE looked over the apartment, the goal of many seasons of hope and work. She smiled bravely through tears she could not keep back. "We've been there before," she said. "It's all right with me."

"It is all over so quick," the ballplayer mused as the two sat late in the night forcing the new situation. "A fellow spends his youngest years, maybe his best, slugging toward the big bush. He gets a place on the team and he wins enough attention to move along. Then it is another struggle warming the bench on a big team waiting for the chance, the chance for fame and big money."

"And you made good," the wife answered proudly. "Every one knows you were the best first baseman the team ever had."

"I was the greatest, that is just the trouble. The old man hasn't said anything yet, but it's coming. A fellow knows when he's slipping. I had hoped to stick another year or two so we could start a little business right here. I want Eddie to go to college."

Next day the Old Man intimated he had something he wished to talk over with his big first baseman. "Come into the office tomorrow at 10," he said carelessly and Ed nodded. The axe was about to fall.

Ed pictured his future on the ride home. Hazel and Eddie would be called upon to move from one city to another, each one smaller than the last, and they would have to save every cent of a shrinking salary. In the end, a bush manager would turn him loose and he would find a job selling cigars or running a pool room.

When Ed reached home Hazel was talking to a dapper young man. "This is Mr. Hooley," she said. "He wishes to talk to you."

The Waters future had undergone another change when Hooley left, for the young man offered the ballplayer a job as coach and trainer at the large City College. It was an all-year job

BODY OF BOY IS FOUND IN LAKE

The body of Grover Light, Jr., eight-year-old son of Mrs. Rose Light, was recovered from Lake Merritt yesterday by police, firemen and bathhouse employees. The officials used a 50-foot line dragged between two boats in their effort to locate the body, which was found in the waters near Grand avenue and Montecito street. The lad disappeared Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Light and her son came from Fresno to Oakland a week ago. They have been at the California Apartments, Grand avenue and Harrison streets. Following the small boy's disappearance on Saturday, his cap was found in the lake by his aunt. Search was then instituted for the body of the child in the belief that he had fallen into the waters while at play.

TEN DIE IN WRECK WHEN TRAIN HITS HEAVY OIL TRUCK

Cars Thrown Against Other Train By Impact; More Than Forty Injured.

ANNANDALE, Minn., August 14.—Ten persons dead and more than two score injured was the toll last night of the wreck on the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railway here late Saturday when westbound passenger No. 107 crashed into a light truck loaded with oil and then blew into the air, the standing on a side track. The work of removing bodies was completed yesterday. Nine of the bodies removed have been identified.

The wreck occurred when Fred Lamm, driver of the truck, failed to heed warnings of members of the freight crew and drove onto the track in front of the passenger, bound from the twin cities to the Pacific Coast.

No. 107 struck the truck squarely and hurled it against the freight car, which was standing on a side track. The passenger car was thrown over the side track into the freight train. The baggage car crashed over the freight car.

Most of the dead and injured were in the smoker, which reared into the air and toppled over. Part of the wreckage caught fire.

LATEST MOROSCO PLAY SCORES BIG HIT AT ORPHEUM

Oakland Premier of Popular
Comedy Well Attended and Appreciated.

Whether or not "Abie's Irish Rose" is theologically sound is a matter for discussion, but that it is excellent entertainment will be vouched for by those who attended the Oakland premier at the Orpheum theater last night.

The newest Oliver Morosco hit kept the house in a continual uproar from the opening argument on the subject of capital operations by Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Cohen to the final verbal row between Mr. Levy and Mr. Murphy on the subject of names for their mutual grandchildren.

"Abie's Irish Rose" is just what the title indicates. Abraham Levy, son of Solomon, meets and falls in love with Rose Mary Murphy, daughter of Patrick Joseph, while they are overseas. Time passes and they meet again. This time they are married by a Methodist clergyman.

Marriage does not end the woes of the young couple, however. It marks the starting point of a series of weird adventures in which additional marital ceremonies are performed by a rabbi and a priest, in which prospective fathers-in-law indulge in a fisty duel, and in which man and kosher food figure prominently.

SIMPLICITY WINS.
From this it can be learned that "Abie's Irish Rose" is comedy of the richest type. There is nothing misleading about the title just as there is nothing complicated or difficult to fathom about the play. It is in the simplicity of the plot and the naturalness of the actors that "Abie's Irish Rose" wins.

Morosco has sent a splendid company to Oakland for his new piece. The names, with the exception of Sidney Franklin, are not ones previously used on electrical signboards, but the whole effect is gained by team work and natural acting.

PLAYS DIFFICULT ROLE.
Sidney Franklin carried the role of Solomon Levy, father of Abie and the central figure in the show, made of it a combination of Barney Bernard in "Abie Potash" and David Warfield in "The Auctioneer." It was a difficult role to play because it continually borders on the burlesque, but the line of division was always carefully distinguished by Franklin.

Billie Ray was the fighting Irish father of Rose Mary, in whose soul there is no compromise and who thinks just as little of Solomon as Solomon thinks of him. Inasmuch as neither hesitates to take the other on the slightest provocation the battle is almost continual after the second act.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Cohen were admirably portrayed by Jack Ryder as Rabbi Samuel.

Two made of the garulous wife and her weak-kneed spouse a comedy pair of unquestioned effectiveness. Another excellent pair were Harry G. Keenan as Father Whalen and Philip Ryder as Rabbi Samuel.

TALKS SERIOUS SIDE.
It was to Keenan and Ryder that the serious side of the play went and their discussion on the merits of the respective religions practiced here and abroad did not seem out of place in a comedy because there was nothing incongruous in the characters.

The fourth couple around whose heads the storm was continually breaking were Harold Shubert and Barbara Brown. Shubert made of Abie a straightforward young fellow who fought his father respectfully and adored his wife. Miss Brown, with a touch of henna, was a picture as well as an actress of charm and ability.

"Abie's Irish Rose" marked the first of the new season's road shows to be presented by William A. Rusco at the Orpheum, and gave promise of better things. It is one of the few serious comedies ever presented here. There is not only merit in the play, but there is food for thought.—R. L. S.

THEATRE

PANTAGES

If one seeks something new in vaudeville, Pantages can fill the want this week. Without doubt the Bob Pender troupe present the most laughable and at the same time thrilling spectacle exhibited on a local stage for many months.

The members of this troupe, reckless of danger, thump on to the stage in grotesque attire, mounted on stilts so high that the tallest of them could easily flip flies from the hangings across the top of the stage.

"In Seville," presented by three of the best dancers on the vaudeville stage, enact an episode snatched from the tragedy of night life in the European underworld. Kathleen O'Hanlon, Senorita Elvira and Theodore Zimbounis compose this extraordinary trio of artists. The act is abundantly colored.

James Thornton stirs much merriment with his innocent diatribe on the tragedy of night life in the European underworld. Kathleen O'Hanlon, Senorita Elvira and Theodore Zimbounis compose this extraordinary trio of artists. The act is abundantly colored.

AMERICAN
James Kirkwood, Anna Q. Nilsson, Norman Kerry and a host of other celebrities are featured in the screen adaptation of Booth Tarkington's famous novel, "The American," which is now heading a double bill at the American theater. On the same program is "The Ordeal," starring Agnes Ayres, screen conception of W. Somerset Maugham.

The story has for its heroine a beautiful and wealthy girl who leaves America for a three-year trip abroad. In Italy she falls victim to the pretense of nobility and seeks a title. Her ambitions involve her in a web of trouble and when she is turned for help it was to the young American whose love Europe had made her temporarily forget. He came to her assistance and after thrilling adventures made her realize that the title of wife to a citizen of Kokomo, Ind., was as fine a thing as she wanted.

STATE.
Spectators at the State theater yesterday were taken on a trip into the heart of Borneo with Martin Johnson, famous explorer, and his wife, into a region where live only savages and wild animals. "Jungle Adventures" is a photoplay that exceeds in thrills Johnson's tremendous pictures. African savages and tribes, released about two years ago, taken in British North Borneo, the pictures are a series of screen this week are of marvelous photographic beauty, owing to the natural vegetation and cloud effects. "Water buffalo, elephants, crocodiles, cranes and orang-utans are shown in their natural habitat. In the vaudeville part of the show a stageful of people appear with Mabel Blomfield in her syncretized role.

FRANKLIN
Eleven stars of the first magnitude are cast in "Rich Men's Wives," now playing the Franklin theater. House Peters, Claire Windsor, Alice Lake, Myrtle Stedman, Gaston Glass, Charles Clark, Little Richard, Hendrick, Martha Mattox, William Austin and Carol Holloway make the line-up resemble a post-world series list of baseball stars.

As for the production, "Rich Men's Wives" is without doubt one of the greatest society dramas ever filmed. It's story vanks the covering from social butterflies and calls a "spade" a "spade." It convulses with straight full-arm punches. No better acting has been seen here for months than that of House Peters, as the master of the house. Claire Windsor makes a beautiful lead and wears wondrous gowns. The production is credited as costing more than a quarter of a million dollars, as 120 sets were used and the entire picture was directed by Gaspar, acclaimed the masterpiece of the studio. Its engagement will terminate next Friday night.

Midwest Farmers Advised on Smut
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Farmers in the mid-western wheat fields where the spread of flag smut among the crops is causing increased loss in the harvest, are urged by experts of the agriculture department to plant varieties next fall which are immune to the parasite or more highly resistant. The region adjacent to St. Louis in Illinois and Missouri has been found to contain an area of about 7000 square miles in which the spores are spreading rapidly. Where, in 1921, only 12 square miles were infected. The department experts believe that attempts at eradication are likely to fail and that change in planting is the only means of checking the spread.

Contracts for the building of the first two of a fleet of modern freighters will be let in time to have the ships ready at the opening of lake navigation next spring, according to A. Miller McDougall of Duluth, president of the McDougall Terminal Warehouse Company, which will operate the terminal and vessel service. The terminal will cost $1,750,000 and the barges $200,000 each. Mr. McDougall said the route will be by the Great Lakes and through the Erie canal to the ocean at New York. It will be the first time this route has been used for direct shipments from the head of the Lakes to the ocean.

The ships will be operated on the Great Lakes during the period of navigation of eight months, and then will be shifted to the Atlantic coastwise trade, Mr. McDougall said. If the business permits, it is contemplated to operate the ships up the St. Lawrence river to Montreal.

GENEVA, Aug. 14.—Mathilde McCormick does not intend to marry Max Oser, her Swiss riding master fiancé, this year.

Received in her Switzerland retreat this morning by telephone, Mathilde gave the following official statement for publication: "I will not be married this year as I had intended to. But my plans otherwise are in no way changed."

"My engagement to Max Oser is not broken. I am going to spend a vacation in the Swiss mountains and do not expect to return to merica for a long time. I am as pleased as father is over his wedding."

"This is positively the last publication statement that I shall make regarding my plans. I beg that the world will make me happy by forgetting my existence."

Window Smashed in Attempted Theft
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—A burglar made an attempt to obtain a quantity of jewelry from the window of the Keystone Jewelry company, 756 Market street, early today. Patrolman Charles LaDue of the Central station, who was on duty, heard the crash of glass and hurried to the place. He discovered that a brick had been thrown through the window, shattering the pane, and he promptly notified the proprietor, A. Isaacs, 419 Seventh avenue. The latter said he would be unable to tell whether or not any articles had been taken until after an inventory. He believed, however, that the culprit had not had a chance to get anything.

Midwest Farmers Advised on Smut
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Farmers in the mid-western wheat fields where the spread of flag smut among the crops is causing increased loss in the harvest, are urged by experts of the agriculture department to plant varieties next fall which are immune to the parasite or more highly resistant. The region adjacent to St. Louis in Illinois and Missouri has been found to contain an area of about 7000 square miles in which the spores are spreading rapidly. Where, in 1921, only 12 square miles were infected. The department experts believe that attempts at eradication are likely to fail and that change in planting is the only means of checking the spread.

The Reason the Artist Quit

This, in effect, is an explanation of why a rather well-known New York politician gave up free-hand drawing. Although without any artistic training, he rather fancied himself a pretty fair amateur sketch artist until a certain incident, which I am now about to narrate, came to pass.

In company with a newspaper man he was touring Spain. One morning in Malaga the two Americans dropped into a little cafe for breakfast. They knew no Spanish and their waiter knew no English. Largely by signs they made him understand that they wanted coffee and rolls. This was no very hard job inasmuch as coffee and rolls practically constituted the breakfast menu of the establishment. But when the newspaper man decided that he wished also a glass of milk difficulties arose.

Singly and in chorus they pronounced the word "milk." Then they spelled it out. Then they pointed it out as one always does, somehow, when using one's own language, one is dealing with a stranger who doesn't understand that language. The waiter merely shrugged his shoulders and spread his fingers in a gesture of helplessness.

The man who wanted milk imitated the action of one milking a cow, meanwhile making a noise, and then to round out the illustration, went through the pantomime of emptying an imaginary glass. Still the waiter stared at him uncomprehendingly.

"Hold on," said the politician. "I've got an idea. I can draw about as well as the next one. Lend me a pencil; it won't take me a minute to make this fellow understand what you want."

With the pencil on the table cloth, he sketched rapidly what seemed to him, at least, a very clear and graphic likeness of a domestic cow, and, squatting down alongside the cow, his conception of a conventional milkmaid engaged in the act of milking.

As he made the finishing strokes, the waiter, who had been watching the operation over his shoulder, burst into a delighted cry of "Si! Si! Senor!" and, taking up his apron, dashed from the restaurant and ran across the street into the shop of a tobacconist.

"Now then," said the politician to his friend, "see what a knack with the pencil will do for a fellow when he gets into difficulties in a foreign country. I'll venture I could go all over the world, making my meaning clear by dashing off these little illustrations of what I meant and what I wanted, and never have any trouble at all about getting along."

"Maybe so," said the newspaper man, "but why in thunder did the waiter go to a cigar store for milk?"

"Probably a custom of the country," said the artist. "The main point was that just as soon as he'd had a good look at my drawing he was on his way. He'll be back here in a minute with your glass of milk."

The prediction was only partly true. The waiter was back again in a minute or less but he brought no milk. Triumphantly, and with an air about him of having accomplished a desired errand with satisfaction to all concerned, he laid down in front of his patrons two tickets for a bull-fight.

Uncle Wiggly Stories by

HOWARD R. GARN

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE SODA WATER.

"COME on, Jackie! Come on, Peetie! And you, too, Billie and Johnnie! Come on!" cried Sammie Littletail, the rabbit boy, one day, as he saw his two new puppy chums and the two Bushytail squirrel boys.

Where do you want us to come?" barked Jackie, as he chased a fly off his own little nose and made the buzzing creature sail over and light on Peetie's nose.

"It's too hot to go anywhere, unless you want us to come swimming," spoke Peetie, as he brushed the fly off his nose and caused it to go sit down on the nose of Billie, the squirrel.

"No, we aren't going swimming," said Sammie, with a jolly laugh which made his pink nose twinkle. "But I'll take you to a place where we can be shady and cool."

"Well, that will be fine!" chattered Johnnie, the other squirrel boy, and then he gave a little jump, for the fly his brother had brushed from his nose tickled Johnnie. "It's a very hot day," added Johnnie, "and I'd love to cool off."

"Where are you going to take us?" asked Jackie. "To the peach bear ice cave of Mr. White-wash?"

"Oh, to a better place than that!" laughed Sammie. Listen, fellows, Uncle Wiggly is down at the corner, in Dr. Possum's drug store, having my sister Susie a glass of ice cream soda water."

"Well, what good does that do us?" Jackie wanted to know. "All the soda water your sister can drink in a week won't make us any cooler, Sammie."

"I know that," Sammie answered. "But if we go down to the drug store and stand with our noses pressed against the window on the outside, looking in, Uncle Wiggly will see us and he can't do anything else but ask us to have some, can he?"

The other animal boys looked at Sammie.

"That's a dandy idea!" laughed Peetie. "Uncle Wiggly is so good and kind that he'll ask us in as soon as he sees us looking hot and tired and thirsty."

"Let's run all the way down to the drug store," proposed Jackie. "What for?"

"To get some soda water, of course," answered Peetie, "and when we press our noses against the window Uncle Wiggly will see us and ask us to have some, won't he?"

They all thought that was a good idea, and soon the five animal boys were racing down the woodland path that led to the drug store of Dr. Possum. When they reached the place, sure enough, there was Uncle Wiggly sitting inside on a merry-go-round stool, drinking soda water, and there was Susie Little Tail, the rabbit girl, having the same thing.

"Come on, fellows!" exclaimed Sammie. "Ac' here, all right—noses against the window—press hard, and everybody look hot and tired and thirsty."

It was very easy for the animal boys to do this, for they surely were hot and tired and thirsty for soda water.

All of a sudden Susie put down her glass and, pointing to the big glass show window, she called to Uncle Wiggly.

The animal boys were racing down the woodland path.

boys pressed flat. "How extraordinary!" And then Uncle Wiggly did just what you would expect that jolly bunny gentleman to do. He called to Sammie and the others: "Come on in and have some ice cream soda!"

"What did I tell you?" whispered Sammie to his chums, as they all shuffled in.

"It was a good trick," said Jackie. Soon the animal boys were drinking soda water with Susie and Uncle Wiggly.

"Doesn't it tickle your nose funny inside?" laughed Susie as some of the soda water bubbles seemed to swell up in her mouth.

"Yes," said Sammie, "but when it does that way just open your mouth and the tickling will stop." But though the animal boys tried to do this sometimes the gas bubbles of the soda water came out so fast that they felt like laughing and sneezing at the same time, which is a very hard trick to do.

All of a sudden, when the last of the soda was almost gone, into the drug store came the old Woogie Wolf.

"Oh, ho!" growled the Wolf. "My friend, the Fuzzy Fox, said Uncle Wiggly was here. Now to nibble his ears!"

"Oh, before you do that!" cried Dr. Possum, "have a glass of soda water, Mr. Wolf!" and he set before the bad chap a glass of extra strong soda full of bubbles.

"I'll nibble his ears!" howled the Wolf. So he drank the soda and then, all at once, his nose and mouth were filled with bubbles.

He tried to blow them off, but not knowing any better, and then as the bubbles went up his nose the Wolf howled "Oh, what's the matter? I feel like a bubble!"

"Oh, what a trick to play on me!" Oh, wow! and away he ran, having the hiccoughs and sneezes at the same time, all on account of the soda water bubbles.

"I guess everything is all right now," laughed the bunny gentleman. Then he brought each of the animal children a lollipop, and they were very happy.

A DAY APPROACHES.

With the conference of English and American statesmen in Washington next month and the deliberations of the newly organized commission, under the Secretary of the Treasury, to formulate plans for the handling of foreign debts, it is probable the European policy of this country, now forming, will assume more definite shape. Then it may be determined how far America will go in taking a hand in the solution of problems across the Atlantic.

Partisan declarations that this country has failed outright in its wider obligations because it is not a member of the League of Nations have no foundation in fact. At every meeting of the League, and of premiers, the United States, in unofficial manner, was represented. Because of its informal participation this country has been able to give more aid to the deliberations than any other. There are times when the disinterested party has most weight.

There are questions before Europe in which this country has no concern. Only as a last resort, an arbitrator, could we be considered and, then, the role would be a thankless one. The decision to leave the problems, through their long period of bitter debate, to the countries concerned, was a wise one. This nation had no proper place in the bickerings at Genoa and The Hague and those meetings served no purpose except, perhaps, to bring so much nearer that conference which will formulate a program. President Harding recognized the need for preliminaries and the wisdom of standing apart until the clouds cleared. At the proper time, if it arrives, the petition and influence of the United States will be so much the stronger.

When the threshing of argument is complete in Europe our part will come. Whether this country deals separately with the powers or at another world conference, it cannot fail to assume a certain leadership. It is the only nation not hampered by debts; the one whose friendship is sought by all. World prosperity cannot return until Europe straightens its affairs, and Europe, in the nature of things, cannot clean house without a long series of conferences which will have led to a workable agreement. In the meantime the United States is loaning to all who wish the services of its foremost experts and is watching with interest the developments at each of these European conferences.

The capture by enforcement officials of liquor and outfits of the estimated value of $70,000 at Hunter's Point is another of those occurrences which indicate the activities of men of means and commercial acumen in the bootlegging business. So many such captures have been reported, and the indication of higher ups is so unmistakable, that it has often been wondered that nothing further is even heard of them so far as implicating master minds is concerned. It is possible that tactics similar to those adopted in another class of law-breaking is followed—of providing a method of escape in the event that operations are interrupted. If so, it appears to be successful.

"CHARLES EGBERT CRADDOCK."

Those of a generation which learned its love of letters in the eighties will have no difficulty in recalling the surprise and pleasure with which they greeted "In the Tennessee Mountains." Here was local color applied by an artist, and here were characters stepped out of the hills. In the Atlantic, in those days, "Charles Egbert Craddock" wrote the stories which attracted a national attention and gave voice to the opinion a new luminary was rising. The short stories in "In the Tennessee Mountains" are treasured today in many libraries, a little red book with the title done in gold scroll and "The Prophet of the Great Smoky Mountains," a novel of the same qualities, is living with it.

Nowadays when the young reader picks up one of these volumes he cannot fail to wonder at its power and charm. Perhaps, he thinks, no one but a strong and forceful man could have written them.

When Mary Noailles Murree died the other day, older men and women identified her at once as "Charles Egbert Craddock," the writer who blossomed with artistic strength at the same time with George W. Cable, Mary E. Wilkins, Hamlin Garland, and Thomas Nelson Page. She wrote first that which was close to her heart and knowledge, the story of the mountains. With fame assured, she took an easier path and added to her list a number of novels done in the popular manner. In the building of her place in American literature these books have no part.

The fueds of the Tennessee mountaineer, his dialect, loves, hatreds, years of labor, and slow philosophy were put into this country's letters by Mary Murree, known to the world as Charles Egbert Craddock.

PROGRAM IS LAUNCHED.

The American Bar Association set a new record for accomplishment in the memorable convention closed last week in San Francisco. If the attorneys present can carry home with them the same spirit they displayed in laying plans, the country may expect prompt launching of important programs.

A nation-wide bureau to teach patriotism, the meaning of government and citizenship is to be formed by the lawyers. Its principal task will be to direct an attention to the fact that the rights and liberties we accept as matter of course, are made possible and are safeguarded by the Constitution. This committee is to be non-partisan, its sole object the development of citizenship.

Add to the credit of the convention the impetus given toward judicial reform. When the American Bar Association condemns the multiplicity of appeals granted criminals, the means by which guilty men may evade punishment, bond trickery, parole for second offenders and those committing vicious crimes, and argues for a curtailment of the sale of revolvers it is advancing a program to end the "crime waves," which are striking terror in many cities.

In some states when it is found that the burglar or hold-up man arrested has a revolver, automatically, he is given a heavier sentence. In some countries the criminal dare not carry a loaded weapon. The United States presents a peculiar condition known to police chiefs and students of crime. Here there are communities of strict law enforcement and severe sentences and others of less vigilant police and lenient courts. In these latter cities collect the criminals while other places in a large measure escape the menace. In its determination to work for standardization of laws, elimination of delays, and speedy administration of justice the American Bar Association has the support of the public. It is a program in which action cannot follow too quickly on the heels of debate and decision.

A LARGER AREA.

Effects of a new rate decision, when the trains start running again, will be to add to California and the Eastbay a new back country. To the manufacturers, packing houses, and others in this section will be brought the produce of Utah.

The new rates recognize the Pacific Slope as a larger and more important market. They take cognizance of the industrial expansion here, the growth of cities, and new importance. While it is true the lowering of freight charges has not been extended to all of Utah's products the preference given that state in shipments to the Coast is regarded as the entering wedge. Therefore it cost as much to send livestock from Utah to Oakland as it did from Utah to the Missouri Valley. The new rate gives a twenty-five per cent advantage to those who ship west.

Such a recognition was bound to come with the development of California and the Pacific Coast. More and more this port, for instance, becomes a marketing and manufacturing center. Surprise is in store for any who reads the figures showing the millions of feet of lumber which come to Oakland in a single week, the thousands of tons of coal, and the bulging cars and boat loads of agricultural produce. Shipments go from here by rail and sail.

The new rates will mean a larger area of wealth for the Pacific Slope.

It is doubtful if the movie business is helped by such performances as that reported from New York, wherein a man made up to substitute for Pearl White, who was engaged in making a dare-devil picture, missed calculations in a dangerous leap and fell to his death. Unless pictures draw without such stunts it may well be doubted if their inclusion will long attract the crowd; and the publicity attending such fatal accidents as the one mentioned is almost certain to leave a bad impression. The more that is done to make the film drama sane, the more stable will it become. Mr. Hays at least has the opportunity to take account of this fatal incident.

An Oregon girl who failed to commit suicide got married instead. This is a reckless age.

Mathilde McCormick says she is getting too much publicity. The girl's right.

Little Journeys Hereabouts.

Sir: Journeying about the suburbs I was assailed by hunger and sought succor from appetite in the leading hostelry of one of the lesser communities. Within its walls everything breathed of better days, how much better was poignantly brought to point when I reached for the water bottle and found in my grasp a squat, square flagon which bore, blown in the glass, the legend "Adam's Pure Rye Whiskey," but which Helan contained nothing more potent than Adam's Ale. Hamlet meditating was no more touched than I to remark "To what base uses we may return."

NOTES and COMMENT

Dissertation on swearing from the Kansas City Star: The majority of correspondents in the controversy in the New York Evening Post as to whether Theodore Roosevelt ever used profanity have decided that he did not. The fact was that it didn't occur. Profanity would have been weak and superfluous mingled with the Roosevelt speech when he wished it to be forceful. A few writers have had the same gift. The simple language of Jack London quoting Wolf Larson was crushing without the use of oaths; and the passage in Huckleberry Finn, where Huck's pap lights out on "the government" is a masterpiece of invective, although there is not a cussword in the entire chapter.

Observes the Washington Post: "The battle of the books continues to be waged furiously in New York. The Society for the Suppression of Vice, which in former days did excellent work in stemming the rising tide of filthy reading, has now, with the best intentions but by the employment of injudicious methods, succeeded in aligning against its proposals for antipublication censorship a powerful combination of authors and publishers. It is a pity that it should have stirred up concerted antagonism, for unfortunately a wide circle of its investigations and surveillance."

The Kansas-City Times springs this: "Senator Borah is resisting the attempt being made to force him into the leadership of a third party. In American politics it's considered tough luck enough to be the leader of a second party."

The New York World tells of a remarkable case: "Frederick W. Birge, fifty-three, of Middlebury, Vt., will take his first step in thirty-nine years, August 15, at the Hospital for Ruptured and Crippled, No. 221 East Forty-second street, the doctors there believe. The date will be the anniversary of the day he was born. Birge was born with infantile paralysis. Also it will mark a triumph in surgery. This is the earliest case of infantile paralysis on record in Vermont, and is said to be the longest period of paralysis, terminating in recovery, in the annals of surgery."

The New York Evening Post tells of an interesting experiment: "Out in Mount Vernon, Ind., Dr. W. E. Hastings is developing a race of stiff competitors of the Ford tractor by mating Arabian mares and African zebras. The result of this interesting cross is the zebra, a handsome striped animal much like the mule in size and contour. Handsome though zebras may be, they are built for work and not for show. They pull the enterprising doctor's ploughs through the rich loam of Posey county, the extreme toe of the Indiana boot. Highly resistant to heat and fatigue, they outdo the mule in the bottom lands."

One of the things hard for us all to learn: That a crowd which goes out to hear a lion roar is worn out. It too many distinguished home producers take up a lot of time telling how he is going to do it. Here's hoping the Johnson bunch of vice-presidents or whatever the side-liners are called will make it snappy.—Claire Davis in Stockton Record.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE IMMIGRANT.

He'd heard this was the land of gold, and gold betokened strife. They had mentioned peace to him, or all the joys of life, They had not told him he should find the children never at play.

"Twas just the lure of yellow gold which set him on his way. "The land of easy money," that was all he'd ever heard; Of how we build and keep our homes no one had said a word.

What freedom means he didn't know, for all they'd ever told Was that our land is very rich and here men gathered gold.

But had he learned this land of ours is one of hearts' content, A land where children go to school and romp in merriment, A land of countless garden plots and homes aglow with cheer, A higher and loftier dream would then have lured him here.

I never see an immigrant but what I wonder why He left the country of his birth— what dream is in his eye? Oh, did he come for yellow gold, or did he come to give? His children all that freedom means and live as free men live?

Oh, was he lured by dreams of peace and was his vision filled With pictures of the little home he hoped some day to build? And did he come to dwell with us and share the joys we hold, Or is he but an alien, in search of yellow gold?

THE MOON TO BLAME.

The professional scientists of the weather bureau may theorize and dogmatize all they please, but they cannot terrorize or demobilize the good old farmers who pin their faith to the moon as the principal manufacturer and supreme arbiter of the weather. The reason why this season's rains have been so general and so heavy is that the moon isn't attending to business. She may not be on strike exactly, but at all events she has got lazy, listless, indifferent. At most she is loafing on her job, without initiative or enterprise, forgetful of her duties, careless whether she turns out a good article of weather or a poor one. About YOUR HEALTH

What Proper Feeding Does For a Child With Rickets

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Any disease which is confined to children is one that means more to most of us than those ailments which attack adults. Everybody loves a child, and it makes us sad to see these little ones suffer.

When a disease is due to the lack of proper food because of poverty or disaster, it makes a double appeal.

Rickets is such a disease. It is a disease of infancy and childhood, and is due to improper feeding.

Rickets appears between the ages of a few months and two years. It depends upon a nutritional fault. Lack of lime robs the bones of an absolutely essential element. Let a child be cheated of the essential milk, and he lacks the lime, protein and fat necessary to his development.

There are many symptoms in rickets. Sweating of the head, loss of sleep, excessive crossness are early signs that something is wrong with the baby.

The digestion is impaired. Constipation and bloating are noted. The child becomes "put-bellied."

The muscles are so weak that it seems impossible for the child to hold up the head or to walk. The head nods, the back bows and the child does not learn to navigate.

The teeth fail to appear. The breast bones become prominent—a condition called "pigeon-breast-ness."

The soft spot on top of the baby's head falls to close. Where the ribs join the breastbone they are beaded, abnormal knobs forming at the ends. The long bones bend. The whole bony framework is abnormal, undeveloped or deformed.

Overcrowding, lack of fresh air and sunlight, bad surroundings, but, above all else, improper or insufficient food, are responsible for the trouble.

Sometimes a child is left on the breast too long. He gets insufficient food and a food unsuited to his age. Perhaps he is kept at the breast during the pregnancy of the mother, robbing the new life and being deprived of needed sustenance.

Under proper conditions, the disease is readily overcome. Fresh air and sunlight, proper bathing, massage, olive oil injections, but, above all else, the proper amount of milk will restore the infant to health.

Creosote cod-liver oil and other foods appropriate to children of his age will hasten recovery. Three or four ounces of orange juice or tomato juice should be given every day.

The doctor will prescribe for such symptoms as require attention, but proper feeding will solve the problem and make a healthy child of the poor little wreck.

ARIZONA'S GIANT GRIZZLY.

Those not familiar with conditions in a stock country have no idea of the amount of damage a single predatory beast can do. Though the stories told by stockmen of their losses may seem incredible, yet there are government statistics and records to back them up.

There was the case of the lone three-toed wolf which for years baffled all attempts at his capture and annually took toll on ranches in Oklahoma and Texas to an amount estimated at $25,000 or more. In due case he succumbed to the skill and perseverance of a hunter in the service of the government.

Far more destructive was the giant grizzly of Arizona killed last June by a hunter employed by the Biological Survey. As recorded in the bulletin issued by the Department of the Interior, the grizzly noted that this bear had destroyed $75,000 worth of stock in the neighborhood of Phoenix. But if his depredations were more than those committed by the lone wolf his capture was at least as hard a task.

A grizzly bear like this is a formidable foe for an armed man to encounter. The strength of his giant paws is sufficient to smash the shoulders of a yearling steer with a single blow. In addition the grizzly is wary and resourceful. The respect he inspires in human beings who have studied his ways is illustrated by the answer of the man who was asked to go on a grizzly hunt said that he had lost none and was indifferent to the physical well being of the entire tribe. Therefore the slayer of the Arizona cattle killer has reason to be proud of his work besides being entitled to the gratitude of the stock raisers of the state.—New York Herald.

SEN DODGERS.

Personally, we are glad that we live in a city where there are few, if any, sundoggers. The modern sun-dogger is the man or woman who demands thrills of the night-life; they must whistle and dance and sing and drink, and then think they are having a good time.

These sundoggers complain because of the Eighteenth Amendment; they say all the "nep" has been taken out of the night-life without the peppery stuff they call alcohol, and that the social amenities of all night-life occasions are gone since the booze; they can't love like they used to love and make love over and over again while the orchestra jizzed and a laughing trombone split the air along with the shrills of the night-lifers and the silly chatter; they can't have the good time of the old days without the bottle hot fire and the smoking wine and all the other intoxicating drinks, although they have the crying saxophone and the laughing trombone and the gaily show and all the bizarre decorations of a cabaret or a summer refreshment garden.—From the Marion Star.

CLOTHIERS OPEN STATE CONVENTION

Retailers of State Gather
For Three-Day Session;
Traveling Salesmen Meet
And Will Play Hosts

You simply can't dodge those traveling salesmen.
That's what the retail clothiers of the state discovered when they arrived at the Hotel Oakland today for their annual three-days convention. For upstairs, on the mezzanine floor, were gathered the traveling clothing salesmen of the state, not only holding a convention of their own, but with elaborate plans prepared for the entertainment of the clothiers throughout the convention period.

Downstairs in the Rose room of the hotel, the retail clothiers during the coming three days will discuss the wool tariff, and take steps toward preparing a protest against it to be submitted to the joint congressional tariff committee. They will also discuss merchandising methods in general, and various ways in which to lower the cost of clothing to the ultimate consumer.

SALESMEN MEET TOO
Upstairs, at the same time, the Apparel Men's Club of California, consisting of the salesmen who regularly visit the clothiers on their "rounds," will discuss the best means of approaching the clothiers, and of making the latter perceive that the salesmen are "an absolute essential, instead of a necessary evil," as Vice-President A. J. Beiersdorf of the apparel men's organization, put it today.

And in between sessions of both conventions, the apparel men will entertain the clothiers with luncheons, sightseeing trips and a huge indoor barbecue.

In return for the many courtesies the retailers extend us in the course of the year," Vice-President Beiersdorf said today, "we have come here to entertain them, and look out for their interests during their convention."

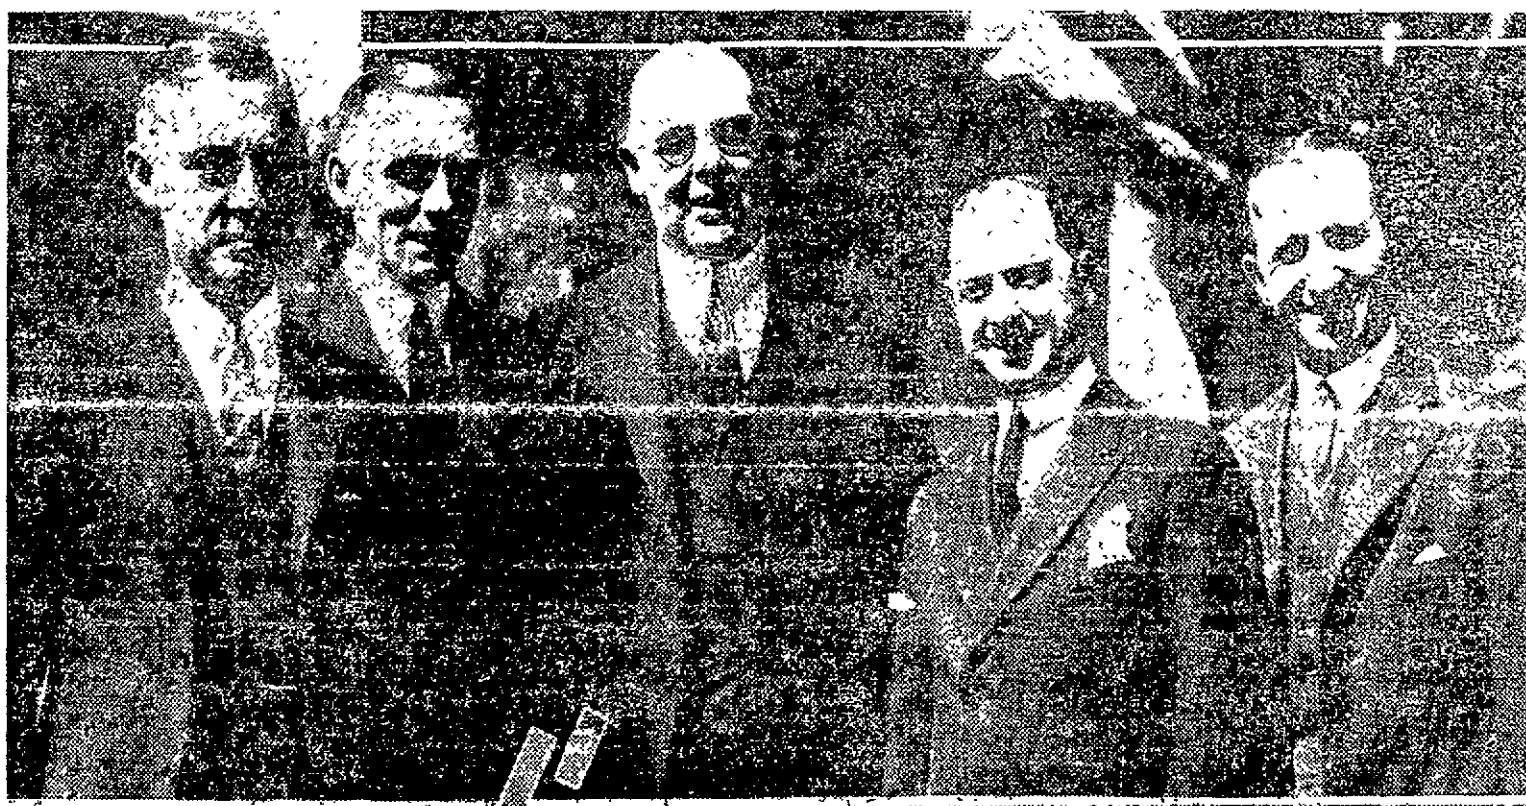

Features of today's session of the clothiers' convention were an address by Congressman Julius Kahn at a luncheon held at the Hotel Oakland, at which the visiting clothiers were the guests of the Oakland members of the organization; a talk by Joseph V. Breitwieser, associate professor of education at the University of California, on "The Psychology of Salesmanship"; and an address by G. E. Nagel, of Los Angeles, on "The Retailer's Problems and How to Combat Them."

S. F. MAN PRESIDES.
Sam Berger, of Berger's, San Francisco, president of the organization, is conducting the convention.

Today's session opened with an address of welcome by Mayor

State Clothiers Here for Annual Convention

Upper (left to right), ARTHUR RAMAGE of Oakland, member of board of directors of the Retail Clothiers' Association; J. H. ROPER of Oakland, who introduced speakers this morning; SAM BERGER of Berger's, San Francisco, president of the association; NADEAU L. BOURGEOIS, manager of Roos Bros., San Francisco, and secretary of the association, and SECRETARY BLANKS EVERETT of the Chamber of Commerce, who welcomed the delegates to Oakland. (Lower left), LESTER BRISTOWE, secretary-treasurer of the Men's Apparel Club; WALTER H. REED, president, and A. J. BEIERSDORF, first vice-president. (Lower right), GEORGE ROOS, president of the Roos chain of stores, and chairman of the board of directors of the retail clothiers.

John L. Davie, which was followed by a talk in which Blanks Everett greeted the visitors in behalf of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Davie told the visiting clothiers of Oakland's growing commercial and industrial importance, and praised the share taken in the progress of the city by its retail clothiers.

"The retail clothier forms a Chamber of Commerce, in extent most important part of the community in which he lives," the mayor said. "It has been my experience that the men engaged in the clothing business are among the 'live wires' and prominent citizens of their communities. We are therefore doubly glad that you have chosen our city for your state convention, because we know that your organization is made up of business men who represent the progressive elements of all parts of this great state."

C. OF C. GIVES WELCOME.
Secretary Blanks Everett of the Chamber of Commerce, in extending that organization's welcome to the clothing men, declared that what Oakland needs is for business men to come here and see its possibilities. "Then," he asserted, "large numbers of them will be so impressed that they eventually will come back and make Oakland their home and place of business."

"That is one reason why we are so glad to see you here," he said. "We know that you will spread the word among the business men in your respective sections of the state as to what Oakland is like, and that will help Oakland in the progress it is already making so rapidly."

TO BE CLUB'S GUESTS
Tonight the clothiers will be the guests of the Men's Apparel Club at an indoor beefsteak barbecue, to be held in the grill room of the Hotel Oakland by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, at which Edward F. Treitz of Chicago will be the principal speaker.

"One of the principal topics of discussion at the convention will be 'How the Tariff Will Affect the Retailer,' and through him the buying public."

"The great problem of the retailer today is how to keep prices as low as they are at present, in the face of a rising market caused by the impending tariff on wool," Arthur Ramage, Oakland clothier and member of the board of directors of the association, said today.

RESOLUTIONS OF PROTEST.
Resolutions of protest against the wool tariff as it is at present contemplated by Congress may be adopted during the course of the convention, according to President Sam Berger. These resolutions, if adopted, will be forwarded to the joint congressional committee, in whose hands the tariff question now rests, Berger said.

The opening session of the Men's Apparel Club will be called to order tomorrow morning by President Walter H. Reed of San Francisco.

"The principal purpose of our convention will be to discuss ways in which to show the retailers and the public in general that salesmen are as much a factor in the commercial and the civic life of the community as any other body of men," Reed said today. "What we want to do is to foster closer relations between the clothing retailer, the manufacturers and the salesmen."

HONORS PAID EPIDEMIC OF TO ALAMEDA BURGLARIES CLUBWOMAN THWARTED

ALAMEDA, Aug. 11.—Hundreds of sorrowing friends and fellow workers joined this afternoon in paying last honors to the memory of Mrs. May Larkin Marston, Alameda club woman, who died last Friday.

The funeral services were conducted by the Alameda Housewives' League, of which Mrs. Marston was president and founder. A large hall in which the services were held was hanked with floral offerings.

Dr. Brush of Berkeley, the minister who married Mrs. Marston, officiated. Mrs. Emma Burke of the Housewives' League, delivered the eulogy, praising Mrs. Marston for her community and civic work. Vocal selections were given by W. Mottebrock and Mrs. Clements.

Mrs. Marston, in addition to being founder of the Alameda Housewives' League, was also an active worker in the Parent-Teachers' association and other civic organizations. She was a native of Montreal, Canada, but had lived in Alameda for many years. She is survived by her husband, Sam, and two children.

ALAMEDA, Aug. 11.—An epidemic of small burglaries swept Alameda last night and the police are busy today chasing down various clues.

Charles Unay, 1128 Broadway, returned to his home as the burglars were operating. They heard him coming and as he entered the front door they left through the rear. The family silverware and other valuables had been carefully gathered up in a large cloth on the dining room table. Entrance had been gained through a rear window aided by a step ladder.

The burglars who entered the grocery store at Willow street and Lincoln avenue removed the hinges from the door. They, too, were frightened away before they had taken anything.

The third robber to be frightened away was the one who attempted to loot the auto of Mrs. J. C. Sevenhake, 1134 Broadway.

Miss Carrie Lawrence reported that someone had pried off a board from the shed at the rear of her home and had stolen a number of empty bottles and some bedclothes. Children are thought to have been responsible.

The nearest that E. C. Rust, 1416 Page street, came to seeing his burglar was the finding of footprints beneath a rear window. The man fled when discovered.

Schools Open in Berkeley With Big Attendance

BERKELEY, August 14.—Berkeley public schools opened today for the new school year prepared to accommodate 11,000 pupils.

Reports from each school from kindergarten to high school indicated that all previous enrollment records would be shattered. With enlarged accommodations, Superintendent H. B. Wilson announced early in the day that there would be no congestion.

A tent has been provided for the Cragmont school in the northern end of the city. This temporary structure will answer the purpose until the school department can complete a building which was decided following petitioning by parents in the district a few weeks ago.

Preliminary to the opening of school Superintendent Wilson addressed the teachers. He said the effort of modern education in which the teachers of Berkeley are leading as well as to get away from normal mere bookish routine educational procedure into ways of working which enable children to work toward the realization of large aims and purposes.

It took years of work and the expenditure of three million dollars before Mr. Edison was satisfied with the New Edison.

He wanted a phonograph which would re-create Music---not merely reproduce it.

Now those three million people who have heard forty great artists sing in direct comparison with the New Edison, know it is the greatest Phonograph. They can tell you that there is no difference between the singer's voice and its Re-Creation by the New Edison. They have seen the singer stand beside the instrument and have heard him sing. They have seen his lips cease, and yet have heard his voice go on without interruption. Had their eyes not told them the New Edison was singing alone, these people would have sworn the voice came from the living singer.

To Mr. Edison it was worth three million dollars to be able to give music lovers the pleasure of hearing our great singers when and where they would, exactly as they would hear them on the concert platform and operatic stage.

THIS WEEK'S SERIES MAY SHAKE UP LEADERS IN COAST LEAGUE

WILLIE HUNTER AND GEORGE VON ELM ARE DECLARED INELIGIBLE BY GOLF ASSOCIATION

Oak Club to Meet Angels In the South

Vernon Tigers Have Good Chance to Cut Down the Lead of Seals.

With the teams about to enter on their respective series of play, the Pacific Coast League men are still far from being settled, although the San Francisco Seals have a lead of five and a half games, with only one more week to play remaining. Vernon Tigers are at the present time, and the Angels are also in the race pretty strong. The coming series, which will open tomorrow afternoon, may result in a shakeup among the leaders, as the Vernon Tigers are headed for San Francisco to take the league leaders. It is almost impossible for the Tigers to go ahead of the Seals by the end of the week, but they have a good chance to cut down the lead. The Angels are to entertain the Oaks in Los Angeles, starting Wednesday afternoon, and with Russell (Doc) Taylor at the helm, the Oaks have a chance to do better than they did while in the north. Arlett will leave here tomorrow morning and join the team at Sacramento. The big fellow should be in winning form in spite of his two weeks' layoff, as he has worked out every day at the Oakland ball park.

The Seattle Indians, after winning four out of six games with the Oaks, are at home waiting to open up a series with the Portland Beavers. The Indians crept up rather close to the Oaks in the standings last week, so it is up to the local club to have some success in the south if they want to keep ahead of the northerners. The Salt Lake Bees, after losing five games in seven with the Seals, are at Sacramento ready to tangle with the Senators tomorrow afternoon. The Senators look to be parked in the Coast League basement for some time, while, but Manager Charley Puck at home, the Bees are getting out before the windup of the season.

Kentfield Loses To Durant Motors

The Durant Motors added another feat to their list of victories by defeating Kentfield by a score of 19-10 in a loosely played game. Both sides fielded ruggedly and the Durant hit the apple to all parts of the lot for a total of twenty-three safeties. The Motor Boys were never in danger. Webb pitched a creditable game, allowing Kentfield but six hits and only one earned run in seven innings. Land was wild, but was given good support in the pinches. Wolfe lasted but two innings on the mound for the Kentfield men, living time to Kelly, who faced him.

The Married Men then took control in the fourth and fifth innings, scoring 5 runs, 4 hits, and 2 errors. Two Golfers Blacklisted By U.S.G.A.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—It was learned yesterday that Willie I. Hunter of England, formerly British amateur champion, and George Von Elm of Salt Lake City, Utah, had been declared ineligible to compete in the national amateur tournament at Brookline, Mass., at a meeting in Chicago during the national open meeting. The cases of Hunter and several others were considered by the association, and it was decided that they had violated the amateur definition, and the applications for admission to the national amateur championship, to be held at Brookline, Mass., next month, were refused. Hunter and Von Elm may seek restoration as amateurs later.

Former Champion of England and Salt Lake Golfer Declared Ineligible.

The acts of professionalism charged to have been raised against the two golfers were not announced, but it was said that neither had done anything that was dishonorable, but had merely played under circumstances that made their standing as amateurs questionable. Hunter and Von Elm may seek restoration as amateurs later.

Two Golfers Blacklisted By U.S.G.A.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—It was learned yesterday that Willie I. Hunter of England, formerly British amateur champion, and George Von Elm of Salt Lake City, Utah, had been declared ineligible to compete in the national amateur tournament at Brookline, Mass., at a meeting in Chicago during the national open meeting. The cases of Hunter and several others were considered by the association, and it was decided that they had violated the amateur definition, and the applications for admission to the national amateur championship, to be held at Brookline, Mass., next month, were refused. Hunter and Von Elm may seek restoration as amateurs later.

Former Champion of England and Salt Lake Golfer Declared Ineligible.

The acts of professionalism charged to have been raised against the two golfers were not announced, but it was said that neither had done anything that was dishonorable, but had merely played under circumstances that made their standing as amateurs questionable. Hunter and Von Elm may seek restoration as amateurs later.

NATIONAL GUARDS WILL ENTER TEAMS OF RUNNERS IN TRIBUNE MERRITT MARATHON

CO. C OF NATIONAL GUARD IS ENTERING LAKE MERRITT RACE

W. A. Kearns Assures Support of Northern Calif. Athletic Federation for Marathon.

By DOUG. MONTELL.

The entry list of the Tenth Annual TRIBUNE Lake Merritt Marathon took on a military aspect this morning with the arrival of the entry blank of Robert S. Allen of Co. C, 159th Infantry, National Guard. Allen is one of the foremost athletes of the Oakland organization and Co. C has already won considerable fame in the local athletic world on account of their strong showing in the Eastbay Basketball League in which they had a strong team in Division Two. The entry of Co. C athletes into the field of running is something new and shows a tendency on the part of the local organization to branch out and take a greater part in the athletic activities of the bay region.

At the same time the entry of Bill Coves of Oakland Technical High School was received, bringing the Broadway institution on even terms with Oakland High in the matter of entries received to date. Coves also has entered the field as has University, but to date Vocational High School has not entered the lists with candidates for honors in the Lake Merritt run.

Kearns Is Strong Booster for Race.

Word was received today from W. A. "Bud" Kearns from Huntington Lake, where he has been attending the summer school session of the Y. M. C. A. representing the physical directors of the Oakland "Y." Always an enthusiast for amateur sport, Bud indicates in his letter that he is more enthusiastic than ever over the conditions under which the Tenth Annual TRIBUNE Lake Merritt Marathon will be conducted. Kearns has always had a strong team entered in the six and a quarter mile race, relying as a rule on the veteran runners, such as Percy Gilbert and Harry Hooker. This year the Oakland "Y" will have new blood in the field and a larger team composed of younger athletes of the organization, will be on deck to start in the race around the lake race on the morning of Admission Day.

Northern California Federation for Race.

In part in his letter Bud says "I have noted with a great deal of interest the announcement of the changes concerning the Lake Merritt Marathon. The event should attract a larger number of entries this year than ever before because of its being thrown open to all organizations, requiring no single registration in any particular body. I can assure you of the entire support of the Northern California Athletic Federation."

Since this is the case from a man as well known in the athletic world as "Bud" Kearns, we are sure for the annual TRIBUNE race. Kearns has always in the past served as one of the officials of the Lake Merritt race and is well known as one of the most popular officials in basketball, football and running in the bay region. Bud expects to be back on our midst within the coming week.

New Organizations Sending in Entries.

Entries continue to come in daily in greater numbers than ever before at such an early date. It is still a matter of a week before the local high schools open for the next term and yet runners from three of the leading high schools of Oakland have already sent in entries in blanks. The interest taken in the race by new organizations, such as the entry of the Allied Athletic Club and the Company C, 159th Infantry, are indications that the race on September 9 will be bigger and better than ever. All of the veteran athletes of the club athletic clubs are known to have been in training for considerable time, many of them having started in June and while they have been working for a

GOLF

By W. D. McNICOLL.

Medal play with handicap was the program for the golfers at Sequoyah last Friday, but friendly matches were substituted due to many of the members of the Sequoyah Club having guests with them. Mrs. Milton Johnson had the following Berkeley players as guests for the day: Mrs. A. V. Thompson, Mrs. C. A. Kruse, Mrs. W. S. Hatch, Mrs. R. H. Madden, Mrs. N. D. Hawkes, Mrs. C. B. Jockel, while Mrs. Horace Hare and Mrs. Roy Shurtliff entertained Mrs. Lewitt (President), Mrs. Harry Richards (President), and Mrs. Bradley Clayton (San Jose).

Medal play over any course in August is rather strenuous, when one has to hole out on each and every hole. Match play against an opponent or against par is less exacting, as loss of hole is the only penalty for not holing out. Among the club members who participated in match play were Mrs. Roy Read, Mrs. A. E. Lorber, Mrs. E. C. Cotter, Mrs. J. O. Buck, Mrs. C. G. Knight, Mrs. L. Dunham, Mrs. L. L. McCaffrey, Mrs. L. Dittman, Mrs. E. D. Mendenhall and Mrs. Clarence Graham.

Mrs. Milton Bernard and Mrs. C. F. Ford, both scratch players, will be notable absentees at Lincoln Park today when championship contenders tee off. Sequoyah will be well represented by the following players: Mrs. E. R. Read, Mrs. Roy Shurtliff, Mrs. A. E. Lorber, Mrs. Clyde Waterman, Mrs. Horace Hare, Mrs. M. A. Turner, Mrs. Clarence Graham, Mrs. John Buck, Mrs. C. G. Knight, Miss Barbara Lee, Miss Elizabeth Knight, Miss Marion Buck, Mrs. H. M. Wright, Mrs. R. K. Yates, Mrs. J. C. Cushing, Mrs. C. A. Stacy, Mrs. H. M. Wright and Mrs. J. F. McMath.

C. C. Ellis, of Claremont, on a conference tournament held on the Del Monte No. 1 course last week, had the low gross score of 79, his handicap of 8 gave him a net of 7. The winner of the low net was a 20 handicap player, who just managed to defeat the Claremonters with 99-30-63.

In the Menlo Park invitational tournament Gerald Marx and Jack Nevill of Claremont, were unfortunately drawn together in the first round match play. Nevill, who just managed to make the championship flight, is now playing better than par golf in match play, but found young Marx right on his game, taking his more experienced opponent to the 16th hole for decision. Nevill met Curry of the Olympic Club in the second round and won another

WILLIAMS AND KEARNS AT "Y" SUMMER CAMP

Two Oakland "Y" Physical Directors, Glen Williams and W. A. "Bud" Kearns, have been spending the summer at Huntington Lake at the Y. M. C. A. summer session and have been associated with the leading physical directors of the state in conference on athletic problems. Kearns expects to return to Oakland during the early part of the present week and at that time will get busy in lining up his Oakland "Y" runners for the Tenth Annual TRIBUNE Lake Merritt Marathon. In past years Kearns has always been an active worker for the interests of clean, amateur sports and this year he is taking a leading part in the athletic activities of the new Northern California Amateur Athletic Federation which is backing the TRIBUNE Marathon. With the co-operation of the Federation the Tenth Annual TRIBUNE race is certain to be a success and will be conducted strictly for amateur runners.

Golf Play Starts

On Oakland Course
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—Sixty-four aspirants for the national professional golf championship, and incidentally for the $1000 that goes to the winner—started the opening match play round of 18 holes on the difficult and tricky Oakland course this morning. The second elimination round to be played this afternoon will reduce the field of contenders to 16.

Several professionals, officially entered and paired, had not reported to tournament officials, and the local committee on arrangements received authority to enter contestants to replace absentees Fred Baron, George Underwood, Charles Clark, Peter Walsh and A. J. Chapman were selected.

Walter Hagen, national pro-champion, notified the association several days ago that he would not compete and was not paired. Fred McLean, Washington, D. C.; Laurie Aytton, Brantford, Ont.; Doyle, St. Louis; George Bowdoin, Cincinnati; and William Leach of Philadelphia have not been heard from.

well contested game 3 up at the 16th hole.

Claremonters are planning a tournament for the 26th, when the young men play the old. Competitors are requested to post their ages, some of the 17-year-old contenders may be requested to produce their birth certificates. A dividing line of players of 40 and over would make an interesting match. The young players of 39 and under would have to play their very best to defeat the veterans.

GOLF FACTS worth knowing

By INNIS BROWN

A. A player plays a ball onto a jow, soft part of the fairway and it becomes partially buried. A local rule permits lifting and dropping without penalty. The score.

A. So long as a local rule permitted lifting, there is no reason why this ball may not be lifted and dropped after playing the stroke.

A. A and B play a tournament match. They make a wager on the match. They finish the eighteen holes even, but A wins on the first extra hole. He claims the stakes, but B disagrees because they were all even at the end of the eighteen holes. Who is right?

A. Unless there was an agreement that the bet was off in case the player tries to play the ball, but drives it further into the ground. Can he lift without penalty after thus playing a stroke?

A. On a certain hole on our course there are numerous small depressions in the rough to the right of the fairway. Water sometimes stands in these. Can a ball be lifted with or without penalty from one of these?

A. Supposing that these are not recognized water hazards, they must be treated as casual water. Hence the ball may be lifted and dropped without penalty.

A. A player slices his drive and the ball falls in a ditch that crosses the fairway some fifteen feet from the edge of the fairway. On the opposite bank directly in front of the ball is a bushy tree. Must the player, after lifting, drop behind that tree, or can he move to one side to avoid the tree on his next stroke?

A. The rule provides that he keep the spot from which the ball was lifted in line between himself and the hole in dropping.

A. Is it permissible for a player in an important tournament, for instance a city championship, to have his club professional carry for him?

A. Yes. If any golf rules puzzle you, write Innis Brown, care of our Sporting Editor, enclosing stamped, return envelope.

Unique Match of Bowls Goes to 'Old Timers'

Lakeside Park Scene of Contest of Oakland Scottish Bowling Club.

The most notable game of bowls ever played on the Lakeside Park green or perhaps in any part of the world for that matter, took place on Saturday afternoon when the old proved "Youth will be served," proved false. Some time ago that old veteran of the game, Major Henry Hume, made the remark that he could put on a rink of four players, all of them over 70 years of age, and make some of the younger players of the Oakland Scottish Bowling Club "bustle." Secretary Tinker accepted the challenge and selected a rink from the following four: Collingwood 25, Day 50, Sweetman 48, Tinker (skip) 49, total ages 152. Major Hume, who shared the Old Guard with V. L. Robertson, 72, Adam Baird 76; James P. Taylor, 78, Major Hume (skip), 79, total ages 300-18. This was this a most remarkable feature in the total of ages but also the game itself. The low score of 11-16 spoils for the character of the bowling, where the experience of years brought victory to the gray-heads. Only twice in the 21 ends did they allow their younger opponents to score more than 1 at an end, and themselves taking 12 of these to their opponents 9. All four of "The Old Guard" look physically fit for many such encounters for years to come. The score.

Robertson, Baird, Taylor and Hume (skip)—3 1 1 0 0 1 1 0-0 2 3 1 2 0 0-18
Collingwood, Day, Sweetman and Tinker (skip)—0 0 1 0 1 1 0 12-3 1 0 0 1 0 0 2 1-11.

The Oakland Ladies' Bowling club sent their best four to Golden Gate Park last week to meet the best four of the San Francisco Ladies' club in the first of the annual games for the silver cup, best of three games. This time they succeeded in winning on the strange green. So that everything favors the Oakland ladies when the San Francisco team plays the return game this week on the Lakeside Park green. The score was 23 to 18.

FT. LEAVENWORTH WINS 11-10.

The Clines declare they are here to stay. Theirs is not a fleeting visit with a pair of losers' medals to take home to the folks in Los Angeles. They admit that and further state that when they get through with the local talent they will fight each other. Which is plenty far enough except that the Johnny member of the tribe has a very important engagement with James Hymon Gold Duffy at the auditorium Wednesday evening, while Mister Gene will entertain by attempting to sock Mister Edward Mahoney on the button.

JOHNNY IS PICKING ON TOUGH BOY FOR FIGHT

That's quite a contract for the Cline boys, but they are both full of confidence and are much better than being full of jealousy or the other conditions that are for sale in this town. Since Johnny licked Marty Farrell he has an idea that he is about the best of his weight in the west and local fans will quite agree with him. He lacks Mister Hymon Gold Duffy. The way the local welter has been stepping the customers had about given up hope of James being paired off with one of these well-known but rare "suitable opponents." The only man in sight was this Cline party and it was necessary to bring him to America from Los Angeles.

WINNER MAY GET CHANCE AT FARRELL

The winner MIGHT get Marty Farrell, if anybody knows where Marty lives. He has been missing from his usual haunts in the south for some time and may have taken one of his periodical and unexpected trips to Timbuctoo or Singapore, or Venice, or some place. Of course, Marty is considerably heavier than either Duffy or Johnny Cline, but Johnny forgot about the weight handicap, stalked Marty to some fifteen pounds and gave him a man's sized licking. Down south they raved over Cline. Up here where the fans did not see the scrap they want to know if Marty was wearing hobbles or blinkers or had to fight with one hand only. Farrell has bowed here and looked about the best since Jimmy Clabby was good. They can't imagine ANY boxer striking Marty to fifteen pounds and defeating him. However, the record book shows that Johnny Cline licked Marty Farrell and what the good "R" book says must go.

CLINES STAGED LITTLE PART OF THEIR OWN

Regarding Gene, who is in no way related to Johnny, in fact, Johnny's name was not always Cline, but when he decided to become a boxer he accepted the first offer for his original name which contained fifteen syllables and henceforth thereafter they called him Johnny Cline. Cline is Gene's proper name and he's proud of it, so proud in fact that he gave the aforementioned Johnny a fine pasting one summer's evening down at Vernon. That would make Gene appear a better fighter than Johnny, but for the fact that Johnny came back a little later and let Gene see several constellations of the most beautiful stars that ever decorated the heavens. Before arriving in these parts Gene was on a winning rampage. He defeated Bud Soles and other good ones. He was expected to make a good opponent for Duffy, but he made the mistake of tackling Chick Roach across the bay and Roach won. They say Gene simply had an off night. His record certainly shows that he can do better. The rest of the Simpsonian offering which includes a Joe Lynch-Eddie Macey offering looks like the best in weeks.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14.—Orders for pine are increasing at such a rate as to create apprehension of a runaway market here in the near future. These mills now have unfilled orders totalling 100,000,000 feet while sawmills are averaging about 70,000,000 feet a week.

EXPLOSION, FIRE
LOSS AT BENICIA
IS NEAR $100,000

Estimate Made By Commander of Army Corps After Inspection of Arsenal.

BENICIA, Aug. 14.—General L. C. Morton, head of the ninth army corps, conducted an inspection yesterday afternoon of the damage done by the explosion and fire at the arsenal here Saturday. He said the damage would be between $75,000 and $100,000. Most of the buildings destroyed were barracks built in 1852 and 1856.

John Merce is in the hospital suffering from burns about the head and body.

The work of Captain L. M. Wheeler and his staff of a hundred marines and soldiers from Mare Island and nearly a hundred volunteer citizens of the vicinity who entered in the dangerous work of quelling the flames before they reached the T. N. T. magazine, which would have endangered the entire community, has met with instant recognition. Captain Wheeler said yesterday that he would recommend Congressional recognition for the heroic work done by many of the soldiers and volunteers.

All the anxieties of a soldier's wife were experienced by Mrs. Wheeler on the day of the explosion when she watched her husband at the head of his corps fighting the flames which threatened such serious damage. At the beginning Mrs. Wheeler took her stand on the balcony of her home in officers' row and watched the fight until it was finished late that night.

Guy Hoover, a painter, was today sentenced to five days in the city prison by Police Judge Edward J. Tyrrell after he was found guilty on a charge of speeding. The commitment was withheld. He was told that if he was arrested again for speeding he would have to serve the five days. He was fined $5 for having his muffler open. Hoover was arrested at Eighth and Market streets by Policemen Harry Teeple. He told the court that he was speeding because he did not want to be late for work.

BAND FILTERS.
Types of circuits which have the property of transmitting oscillations within a prescribed range or band of frequencies and eliminating other oscillations which are not included within the limits of the desired band. These circuits perform important functions in connection with wire telephony and may be used to replace the tuned transformer in radio circuits.

SKIN EFFECT.
When alternating current flows in a conductor the tendency of the current is to flow in the outer portions of the conductor instead of being distributed uniformly over the entire section. If high frequencies are employed, the current flows in a thin layer at the surface of the conductor with the result that the resistance of ordinary conductors is greatly increased. This is a considerably greater effect at the resistance at low frequencies. The conditions arising from this non-uniform distribution of current is known as "skin effect."

DECREMETER.
A wave-meter designed for the purpose of measuring decrement. This instrument is provided with a scale from which the decrement can be read directly.

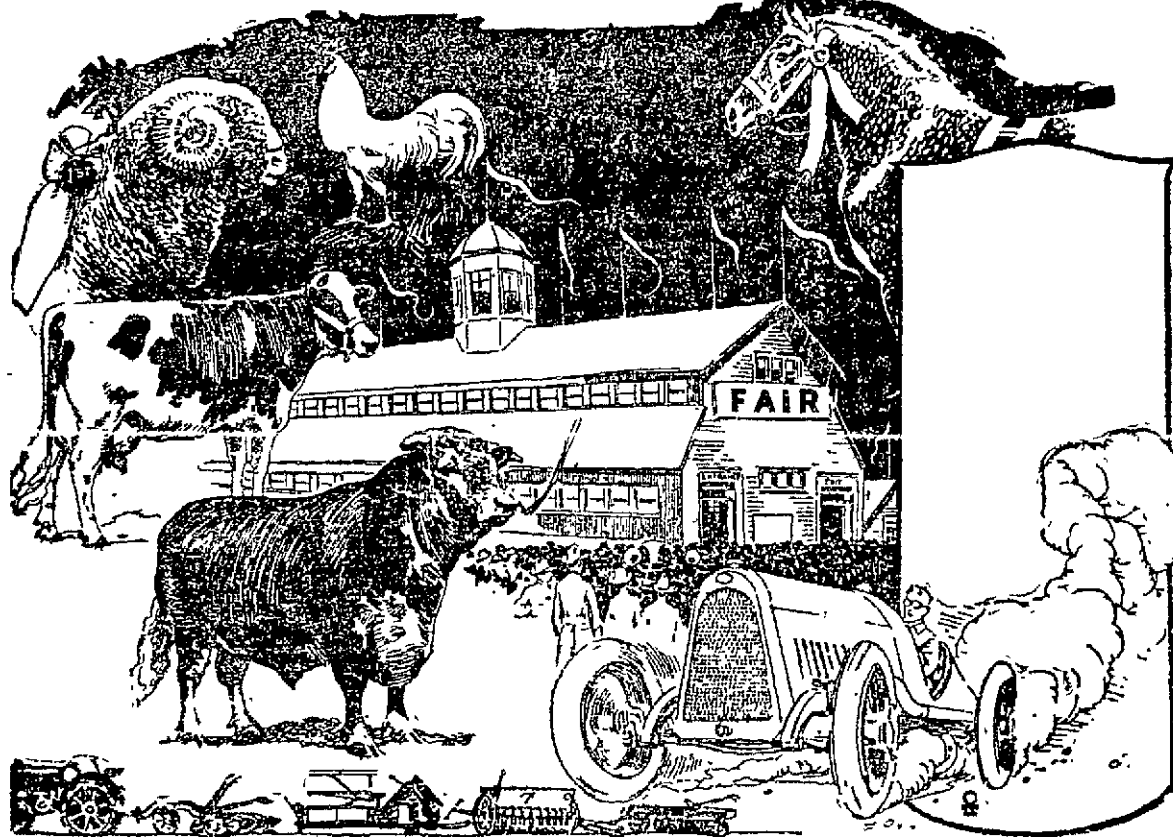

LOGARITHMIC DECREMENT.
When oscillations are created by an electric spark discharge the shape of the train of waves is such that the ratio of any oscillations to the one preceding it is constant and this ratio is called the damping of the oscillation. The Neperian or natural logarithm of the ratio between two successive amplitudes in the same direction is known as the "logarithmic decrement," and is used to comply with U. S. regulations the decrement of the emitted wave must not exceed 0.2, which necessitates twenty-three complete oscillations for each spark discharge.

SPECIFIC GRAVITY.
The relation between the density or weight of one cubic centimeter of a substance and the weight of one cubic centimeter of chemically pure water. In a storage cell the specific gravity of the electrolyte is determined by means of a hydrometer.

POLARIZATION.
A condition which exists in an electric cell when hydrogen bubbles collect on the positive plate.

GERMAN HOPES
REST IN FARMER, STATES AUTHOR

Race Strong At Foundation; Republic Unlikely to Last, Declares S. F. Visitor.

The German farmer—the "bauer"—is the hope of Germany, for he possesses those elemental virtues which will serve as the foundation on which to build a new prosperity, and renewed hopes for the future.

Such is the viewpoint of Dr. Gustaf Frenssen, a famous German author, whose great book "Jorn Uhl," the story of a North German farmer, created a sensation throughout the world, and has been translated in all languages. Frenssen arrived in San Francisco last Saturday and is at the Hotel St. Francis. He has come to the United States at the invitation of the American Committee for the German Children, and will deliver several addresses while here.

"The German farmer has retained his conservatism, his elemental vitality and virtues," Dr. Frenssen said. "The war has not diverted his thoughts from the real things that matter in life, nor from the serious business of making his living. He goes on from day to day, his hand on the plow, driving it through the furrow with the determination of fate."

HOPE FOR GERMANY
"There is yet much hope for Germany. We are an old, old race, and the racial kernel is strong, healthy and full of vigor. The German nation is courageous, and the heavier the burden we carry, the stronger rises the tide of courage."

"No, the Republic has not made much difference in our mode of government. You see, Germany was always 'ein sauber regiertes Land'—a cleanly governed country. So, although we now have a Republic, the man in the street does not notice much difference in the fashion in which our laws are administered, or in which the general interior administration is carried out. Personally speaking, I do not believe that we will retain the Republic. After a good many years, we will revert to a form of very liberal democratic monarchy, such as England has. This does not necessarily imply a return of the Hohenzollerns—we have many other very worthy princely families."

UNREST IN ART
"The Republic is doing much for art and literature. There is much unrest in our artistic and literary circles, much uncertainty and groping around. But though the intentions of the Republican institutions toward art and literature are of the best, much of the great and generous support formerly given by such patrons as the kings of Bavaria, has gone forever."

Dr. Frenssen's books are used by the various American Universities as text books, in the original German. In addition to his "Jorn Uhl," his "Drei Gezeiten" and his "Holy Land" have become world-famous.

The previous record for a city dredger was twenty-eight hours of continuous work. Stationed in the Key Route Basin channel out from the Albers Mill the new dredger was able to make the record without a "hobble" with the machinery or trouble with the pipeline. The dredger is under command of William Kirk, chief mate.

TWO WOMEN GO TO MOSS BEACH AND DISAPPEAR

Police Asked to Search For Mrs. J. W. Vore and Miss Greer of Berkeley.

BERKELEY, Aug. 14.—Police of the bay district were asked today to search for Mrs. J. W. Vore, 1920 Grove street, who disappeared Sunday after leaving for Moss Beach in San Mateo county on an outing with Miss Greer, who recently took a room at the Grove street address.

Mrs. Vore, because of her previous promptness in all respects, is feared by relatives to have not with an accident, according to the report to police. No one could furnish the authorities much information regarding Miss Greer, who had not lived in this city long.

As explained by relatives of Mrs. Vore, the two women left for the San Mateo beach Sunday to enjoy an outing. They carried lunch, and were to have taken a stage out of San Francisco. Police are now trying to ascertain whether they got as far as the scheduled destination.

Mrs. Vore is described as 55 years old, five feet five inches tall, and weighing about 160 pounds. Miss Greer was similarly described with the exception of being ten pounds lighter. Both were distinguished by their gray hair.

Marriage Ban
Removed for Soviet Clergy

MOSCOW, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press).—All restrictions on marriage for bishops and clergymen have been removed by the "living church congress" of the recently formed soviet church, whose members are working to have the new church take the place of the old orthodox church. Among the "red clergy," as the clergymen of the new church are called, the orthodox church is referred to as the "red church."

It is contended by the "red clergy" that by permitting marriages clergymen are brought into closer contact with the community. Regarding monks, the congress decided that the higher monks may disregard their vows and marry, still retaining their positions.

POISON CASE DISMISSED.

A charge of violating the State poison law against John Jackson was dismissed today because "Seattle" Eddie Burns, who is serving a jail sentence on a similar charge, admitted that the drugs belonged to him. They were arrested in a rooming house in West Oakland, July 31. Morphine and cocaine valued at several hundred dollars were seized in the raid. On Friday Burns was sentenced to 180 days in the city prison.

INDIAN GIRL, 14,
THIRD TO VANISH
IN CITY VISITS

Search of Eastbay Fails to Trace Young Charge From Reservation.

A search of the bay-region by the police departments has failed to reveal the whereabouts of Louise Stevens, a pretty 14-year-old Indian girl, who has been missing since Saturday afternoon.

The girl was last seen when she left the Young Women's Christian Association building on Webster street. She had spent the afternoon there and left to go to the home of Mrs. A. C. Wheelock, 5609 Dover street, where she is living. When the girl failed to reach home Saturday night Mrs. Wheelock notified the police.

Police Inspector Edward O'Donnell, who is investigating the case, says that the girl was in the best of spirits when she left the Y. W. C. A. She is the third Indian girl who has disappeared from this city within the past few months. She was brought to this city with a number of other girls from a reservation in Nevada.

Remember,
Madam,
Machinery
Does Wear
Out—

Another practical talk on home washing machinery by a practical mechanic.

The ideas of a practical mechanic on washing machinery contained in a recent advertisement in this series brought forth a multitude of letters asking for further information from this viewpoint. This advertisement is in response to those letters.

There's no argument — machinery does wear out.

Where there's wear there's depreciation of value.

This is true of home washing machinery just as it is true of the machinery in your automobile.

Accordingly, to the price of home washing machinery there must be added an extra amount to take care of depreciation.

I am making this point because women do not understand machinery and are often led astray as to exactly what they may expect from it in the way of service and economy.

To the prospective purchaser of washing machinery I would say first investigate the proven service which the Laundry can give you.

Compare it with the limitations of home washing machinery—consider the fact that machinery always involves the risk of personal injury for the inexperienced woman—understand that Laundry methods actually preserve the life of your clothes by protecting the fabric.

Then when this is done, check the cost of Laundry service against the cost of home washing machinery—plus the cost of depreciation, and you will find that the advantages of the laundry cannot only be reckoned in dollars and cents but in convenience, extra leisure time, better looking clothes, longer wearing clothes and safety of health.

Then when this is done, check the cost of Laundry service against the cost of home washing machinery—plus the cost of depreciation, and you will find that the advantages of the laundry cannot only be reckoned in dollars and cents but in convenience, extra leisure time, better looking clothes, longer wearing clothes and safety of health.
